Nixon Shuts Off More Watergate Tapes

WASHINGTON (AP) — White House lawyer James D. St. Clair informed U.S. District Judge John J. Sirica today that President Nixon will turn over no more Watergate tapes, and Special Prosecutor Leon Jaworski said he would continue the court fight to get them.

Sirica issued a statement after a meeting in his chambers saying he would meet with lawyers in the case Friday to map out the impending court battle.

He said a hearing in the case was still set for 2 p.m. EDT Monday.

St. Clair announced at the White House Tuesday that attempts at working out a compromise over Jaworski's subpoena for tapes and documents covering 64 White House conversations had been terminated and that Nixon would fight the case to the Supreme Court if necessary.

"Mr. St. Clair, special counsel to the President, and Mr. Jaworski, special prosecutor, visited the court this morning to formally advise Judge Sirica that the President intends to pursue his motion to quash the special prosecutor's subpoena to him and that the special prosecutor will continue his efforts to enforce compliance with the subpoena," Sirica's announcement said.

"The court intends to meet on Friday May 10 with all attorneys who are participating in litigation regarding the subpoena in preparation for oral arguments scheduled for 2 p.m., Monday, May 13," Sirica added.

St. Clair declined to say Tuesday what Nixon would do if the Supreme Court should rule against him, saying "it is rhetorical and hypothetical and I don't think we will get to that point."

St. Clair also said Nixon would give no more tapes to the House Judiciary Committee for its impeachment inquiry. The committee has requested tapes of about 75 Watergate-related conversations, besides the 42 for which it was given White House-edited transcripts instead of the tapes.

Asked what Nixon would do if the committee issues another subpoena demanding tapes, St. Clair said he would "respectfully decline to comply."

If the committee persisted, St. Clair said. "Then, we're going to have a confrontation because the President is firm in his resolve that he already has told the facts."

The last tapes confrontation came last fall when Nixon ordered then-Special Prosecutor Archibald Cox fired rather than give him tapes subpoenaed for the Watergate grand jury.

Ultimately, Nixon gave up the tapes rather than risk a Supreme Court test. Since then he has given the prosecutor's office other tapes for a total of 19.

By a party-line 20-18 vote the committee declared Nixon guilty of non-compliance with its subpoena for the 42 tapes and many members believe that in itself could be an impeachable offense. But St. Clair said he did not think failure to supply the tapes was an impeachable offense.

Neither Chairman Peter W. Rodino Jr., D-N.J., nor ranking Republican member Edward Hutchinson of Michigan had any immediate comment on the latest White House edict.

However, Rep. Tom Railsback, R-Ill., a committee member, called St. Clair's announcement "most unfortunate."

"This decision is certain to provoke a confrontation with the Judiciary Committee, the end result of which will certainly be bad for the country as well as for the Republican party," Railsback said.

Rep. Don Edwards, D-Calif., said, "I'm sure we'll issue a subpoena."

There was further sign of a tightening White House stance toward Watergate on Tuesday when presidential counsel J. Fred Buzhardt refused to answer some of the hundreds of questions asked of him by the Senate Watergate Committee.

Buzhardt invoked executive privilege, national security and the attorney-client privilege to avoid the questions.

Hofbauer, Mulvin Elected to Board

By CARL GRAHAM

KINGSTON In a light voter turnout, residents of the Kingston City Schools Consolidated district Tuesday elected Fred Hofbauer and Mrs. Doris Mulvin to the Board of Education.

Hofbauer, the Bloomington postmaster, and Mrs. Mulvin, a Lake Katrine housewife, were the only two non-Kingstonians in the field of six candidates. Hofbauer polled 896 votes to lead, with Mrs. Mulvin posting 854 to finish in second place. They will replace Harold E. Keator Jr., the board president, and H. Peter Hoffman, neither of whom ran for reelection.

Trailing the two winners were Milton Reynolds, a former board member (686); James Winslow, a social worker (592); Robert Cunningham, a Kingston High School teacher (512); and Robert Elliot King, an 18-year-old Kingston High School senior (113).

Total voter turnout was 1,992, down sharply from last year's 2,587. Mrs. Rosemary Jones, Board of Education clerk, said the total was the lowest since she began keeping records in 1967.

Fewer voters turned out this year at 11 of the 12 schools where voting was conducted. The only exception was in Tillson, which turned out strongly to give Hofbauer 139 of his winning vote total.

Voter turnout for school board elections in Ulster County is traditionally light but in the city schools consolidated district where voters have no direct voice on the budget, they stay away in droves.

$6.16 million budget approved for Rondout School District ballot. Story on page 2.

There are upwards of 50,000 residents in the school district with perhaps as many as 20,000 eligible (registered) to vote in school board elections. Tuesday's elections represented something under 10 per cent. By comparison, more than 11,000 of the city's 13,000 eligible (registered) voters turn out for a mayoral election.

Both successful candidates are members of the We've Had It Taxpayers Association of Ulster County and were endorsed by WHITA.

Mrs. Alice Tipp, WHITA president, said she was pleased that district voters "had made it clear that they favored WHITA's ideas" for good education.

"I'm sure that the candidates elected will bring back to the people of this district the best education for their children," she said after vote totals were announced at the district's administration center on Crown Street.

A breakdown of voting at the district's 12 schools revealed that Hofbauer and Mrs. Mulvin ran consistently well and Winslow, who led voting at throughout, Hofbauer led in six of the 12 schools, was second in four others, tied for second in another, and made his poorest showing at Edson school, where he ran third. Mrs. Mulvin led at two schools, was second in five, tied for second in another, finished third in three, and fourth in another.

Hofbauer, a regular at Board of Education meetings for several years as a WHITA representative, said: "I'm glad I won. I expect to work with the board for the best education that the taxpayers of this district can afford. I don't expect to spend large sums of money on wasted projects."

The only other two candidates to lead anywhere in the district were Reynolds, who finished top at George Washington, and Hurley schools.

Tax Cut Seen in Saugerties District

By JON POWERS

SAUGERTIES The almost unheard-of prospect of a tax cut in these days of runaway inflation may greet residents of the Saugerties Central School District next year.

The Saugerties Board of Education, through president Robert Francello, has announced that preliminary budget computations indicate that a five cent tax reduction per $1,000 of assessed valuation will be in store for district taxpayers during the 1974-75 school year.

Francello attributed the tax cut to increased state aid and an approximate $750,000 increase in assessed valuation for the Saugerties Central School District.

The anticipated tax cut is expected even though next year's budget will be some $760,000 higher than the budget adopted for the 1973-74 school year. The proposed budget for next year is $7,006,918.76; this year's budget was $6,246,000.

On April 26, it was announced that the Saugerties School District will receive an additional $479,734 state aid allotment for the 1974-75 school year, an increase of 15.52 per cent. That allotment for Saugerties was part of an overall $2.7 million increase in state aid for all the school districts in Ulster County.

Under last year's $6.2 million Saugerties budget, taxpayers paid $139.41 per thousand of assessed valuation. The school board anticipates that next year's tax rate will be $139.36, or a decrease of five cents.

In a prepared statement, Francello said, "We consider this reduction significant in light of the inflationary trends we have witnessed in these times."

"This accomplishment has been realized through the cooperation and efforts of every one. Particular recognition must go to Assemblyman H. Clark Bell (R-Woodstock), a member of the Assembly Ways and Means Committee, who was instrumental and effective in obtaining a substantial state aid hike for Saugerties."

"We are also appreciative of the efforts and contributions of the chairman of the Saugerties Town Assessors, Paul Pavlovich, and his staff, Jack Bartel and Mike Caruso. Many long hours were put paid to members of the professional staff, and an anticipated 35 per cent increase in fuel costs for the district next year."

The tax break was partly accomplished, said Francello, by the Board's also aware of the cooperation and support offered by administration, supervisors and instructional staff within the district."

Francello emphasized that, despite the tax reduction, the school district will be able to "maintain and improve upon the quality of our educational program."

He noted that this year's budget includes "substantial" pay raises for teachers, an increase very often.

Two Killed in Area Accidents

TOWN OF HURLEY

A young woman and an elderly man were killed in unrelated traffic accidents less than 10 hours apart Tuesday night and early today in the Ulster County Towns of Hurley and Shawangunk.

Patricia A. Trautman, 24, of Kerhonkson died Tuesday after her car careened off Maverick Road in the Town of Hurley and slammed broadside into several guard rails and trees.

In the second accident Joseph J. Roe, 67, of RFD 2, Pine Bush died when he was struck by a pickup truck while walking along Route 32 in the Town of Shawangunk.

Miss Trautman was pronounced dead on arrival at Benedictine Hospital after being rushed from the scene of the crash by Hurley Rescue Squad.

Hurley State Police said Miss Trautman was driving south on Maverick Road shortly after 8 p.m. when her car ran off the right side of the roadway. The vehicle traveled about 500 feet along the right side of the road, police said, before it shot across the pavement and struck three guard rails and two trees on the driver's side of the car. The Kerhonkson woman was alone in her car when the crash occurred, according to Hurley State Police.

The scene of the fatal mishap was about 1,000 feet north of the intersection of Maverick Road and Route 28, troopers said. Trooper C. W. Bremer investigated at the scene.

Coroner William S. Keyser was also at the scene. No ruling in the death was immediately issued. An autopsy is scheduled later today.

A ruling from Coroner Arthur C. Chipp is also pending in the Town of Shawangunk pedestrian fatality.

Ellenville troopers said Roe was walking in a westerly direction along Route 32 at about 5:30 a.m. when he was struck and killed by a pickup truck operated by James J. Traxler, 30, also of RFD 2, Pine Bush, which was traveling east.

Roe was pronounced dead at the scene of the mishap. State police said Traxler told them Roe darted out in front of his truck and was struck by the right front fender of the vehicle.

Investigating at the scene of the mishap, about 2 1/2 miles west of the hamlet of Pine Bush, were troopers J.J. Schetzel and J.J. Hayes and BCI Investigator Jennings.

Traxler was issued a summons by state police for being an unlicensed operator. County highways since Jan. 1 ticket stemmed from the fact that Traxler had moved from Ohio to New York more than 60 days ago, but had allegedly not yet obtained a New York State driver's license.

Members of the Walker Valley Fire Department assisted at the scene of the early morning mishap, troopers said.

Roe's body and Miss Trautman's body have both been removed to the Ulster County Morgue in Kingston.

The fatalities were the 17th to occur on Ulster County highways since Jan. 1 of this year.

Impact of Power Plant

Lloyd Panel Continuing Study

By WADE BURKHART

LLOYD power plants of any type be constructed in the township.

The Lloyd power plant advisory committee has made its recommendation to the Lloyd State Atomic and Space Development Authority (ASDA) for the possible construction of power plants, with emphasis on a nuclear plant. The plants would be located in Lloyd if they are built.

One aspect the committee will be directing its attention to, Kurtz said, is how power plants have affected other localities. Kurtz said the emphasis would be on nuclear power plants.

Kurtz said Tuesday his question his committee would be asking is "What sort of a neighbor has a power plant proven to be?"

The question is in a municipality that has a nuclear plant, and raised some disturbing questions for Lloyd.

Kurtz said officials of Buchanan, near Con Edison's Indian Point nuclear plant, were being contacted.

nuclear plant at Buchanan, has Kurtz said has brought a number of inquiries, is what effect the cooling towers would have on the local environment. The towers can be several hundred feet high, and by ASDA, ASDA does not build a power plant more than an acre of the plants itself; the authority's role is limited to identifying, and sometimes securing for future development, sites for the plants. The plants are built by private companies, and are thus on the tax rolls.

If a private company built a nuclear plant in Lloyd, and the state later had to acquire it, would it remain on the tax rolls? Kurtz said he thought it would not, which would be the end of the tax windfall. He said his committee was studying this problem as well.

We're now trying to decide just how best to approach this thing," said Kurtz.

Primary Landslide for Wallace

By United Press International
Former astronaut John Glenn Jr. got his political career off the ground on the third try, and Alabama Gov. George C. Wallace served up a landslide to show he is ready for a fourth run for the White House in primary elections Tuesday.

Glenn, the first American to ride a rocket into orbit a decade ago, finally got the Ohio Democratic senatorial nomination the hard way — by defeating Sen. Howard M. Metzenbaum, the choice of the state's party organization and of organized labor.

Wallace, confined to a wheelchair as the result of a crippling assassination attempt during the 1972 presidential primaries, wiped out all opposition to his bid for a third term as governor and demonstrated both that he can still campaign and still draw votes in large numbers.

There also were primaries in North Carolina, where state Attorney General Robert Morgan narrowly won the Democratic nomination for the seat now being vacated by Sen. Sam J. Ervin, and Indiana, where incumbent House members won re-nomination.

And voters in Washington, D.C., approved a home-rule charter that will give them elected local officials and limited self-government after a century under presidential appointees and congressional law-making.

The Ohio outcome was open, in part, to an interpretation based on "post-Watergate politics." Glenn, 52, threw open his tax and financial records when he declared his candidacy. Then, he attacked the millionaire senator's income tax problems and his role as a favorite of labor and the state Democratic party, headed by Gov. John Gilligan, who appointed Metzenbaum four months ago to fill the seat vacated by Attorney General William Saxbe.

Glenn lost the 1970 Senate primary to Metzenbaum and a plus victory over a field of 1964 race to then-Sen. Stephen Young. In the first campaign, Glenn withdrew after suffering a fall in his bathtub, but his name remained on the ballot.

He will face Republican Mayor Ralph J. Perk of Cleveland in the general election. Wallace also produced something new in his 60 per cent victory over a field of challengers led by State Sen. Eugene McLain. The governor, who came to national prominence as an arch segregationist, got strong support in black areas — a dividend of his recent effort to soft-pedal racial politics and make himself acceptable to Democrats in other areas of the country. In North Carolina, the match-up will be Morgan, a 48-year-old veteran of state politics, and Republican William Stevens, a furniture manufacturing executive.

The referendum in Washington was the first step in self-government for the nation's capital. The city's first elected officials will be chosen in November to preside over a municipal government, which still will be limited by strong powers reserved in the charter for both Congress and the White House.

State Department spokesman Robert J. McCloskey said Tuesday. He said the United States thinks "there is a possibility of agreement, but there is no way to know for certain before presenting them."

Israeli Information Minister Shimon Peres said Jerusalem's "shaped opinion" included "geographic considerations," but he refused to go into details.

Mrs. Meir gave Kissinger the details Tuesday night after the secretary returned to Israel from a meeting in Cyprus with Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko. A U.S. official said Israeli press reports said two of the key issues appeared to be the status of Golan Heights land seized in the 1967 Middle East War.

The reports said Israel was willing to return the abandoned Golan Heights town of Quneitra, but was hesitant to give back three nearby hills. Israel has been pushing for an armed U.N. peacekeeping force to police the cease-fire, but Syria has called for only unarmed observers.

Kissinger Brings Formula

DAMASCUS (UPI) — Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger arrived from Israel today with his latest batch of "considerations" on a troop disengagement formula and planned to return with a Syrian response tonight.

Before leaving Jerusalem after a 45-minute meeting with Israeli Prime Minister Golda Meir and her key ministers, Kissinger said, "We are making progress in clarifying the considerations and I will have to see what basis for optimism exists when I return."

"I will now present these considerations in Syria and report back this evening when I return."

Foreign Minister Abba Eban, who accompanied Kissinger to the door, said that "in the talks yesterday and today, we have been able to give the United States more detailed concrete knowledge of our views on a possible disengagement agreement than before."

Outside the office, some 300 chanting high school-aged demonstrators protested any compromise settlement that would give Syria back any of the territory it lost in 1967. "The Land of the Golan is a Part of Us," read one of their placards.

A high official aboard Kissinger's plane said the secretary was confident of bringing about Middle East in several weeks, but on his sixth peace mission since last October's 17-day war if he fails to get an accord on the current trip.

Kissinger was expected to have a better idea of whether he can separate Syrian and Israeli forces when he returns to Jerusalem tonight after calling the detailed summary of Kissinger was taking to Damascus.

The high U.S. official said Kissinger would go back to the States with some new consideration.

Syrian and Israeli gunners battled for control of Mt. Hermon today, but Israel reported a decrease in the intensity of the 58-day war of attrition along the Golan Heights.

A high official aboard Kissinger's plane said the secretary was confident of bringing about Middle East in several weeks, but on his sixth peace mission since last October's 17-day war if he fails to get an accord on the current trip.

Kissinger was expected to have a better idea of whether he can separate Syrian and Israeli forces when he returns to Jerusalem tonight after calling the detailed summary of Kissinger was taking to Damascus.

The high U.S. official said Kissinger would go back to the States with some new consideration.

Syrian and Israeli gunners battled for control of Mt. Hermon today, but Israel reported a decrease in the intensity of the 58-day war of attrition along the Golan Heights.

A military communique in Damascus said artillery crews lessened a bit Tuesday following the morning on Syrian President Hafez Assad's reported promise to end the clashes during Kissinger's fifth Middle East peace mission.

A military source in Tel Aviv said, however, the reduction in the Syrian level of Syrian shelling was force to police the cease-fire, but Syria has called for only unarmed observers.

Simon...Energy Crisis to Inflation Crisis

WASHINGTON (AP) — Like Treasury, succeeding George P. Shultz, Simon has been the nation's energy chief since December and will be succeeded in that position by John Sawhill.

President Nixon planned to attend the ceremony.

Simon, 46, will be his fourth Treasury secretary, after David Kennedy, John B. Connally inflation rate to be his major challenge.

But he has not promised any deal with rising prices and told senators at his confirmation hearings he opposes a tax cut and wage and price controls as remedies.

He urged a return to economic fundamentals to control inflation, which implies policies that are a little removed from those favored by Shultz and other Nixon economic advisors.

If Simon sticks to his fundamentals plan, Americans can expect him to give major attention to restraining government expenditures and possibly even trying to balance the federal budget.

Sen. Walter Mondale, D-Minn., said after listening to Simon at the confirmation hearings that his policies sounded like "a typical old-fashioned, big-banker's approach to the economy."

But Mondale did not oppose Simon and he was confirmed by the Senate without significant opposition.

One potential handicap for Simon will be that while the problem of inflation is worse than when Shultz became secretary, he will not have all the economic authority that Shultz had.

Nixon did not name Simon to Shultz's post as chairman of the White House Council on Economic Policy, nor did he give Simon the title of assistant to the President, a position held by Shultz.

One reason for the reduced authority, sources have said, is that budget director Roy L. Ash and others wished to have a bigger economic policy role for themselves.

Another reason, it is believed, is that Simon is less experienced in economic affairs than Shultz—the last member of the original Nixon Cabinet to leave office.

However, Shultz said Monday that he thinks Simon is the logical choice to play the key economic role in the administration, and Simon may yet emerge with all the authority.

New White House Stand Like Last Year's Battle

WASHINGTON (AP) — The newest White House stand against yielding subpoenaed tape recordings looks like a replay of last year's battle in the courts. But this time it may end up in the Supreme Court.

Last year's drama moved through the U.S. District Court, then the U.S. Court of Appeals before the White House suddenly reversed its stand and yielded.

It cost Archibald Cox his job as special Watergate prosecutor, led to the resignations of the attorney general and his deputy and stirred impeachment talk.

The current revival, also involving a subpoena against President Nixon for Watergate tapes, has a new presidential lawyer and a new prosecutor in the starring roles.

James D. St. Clair, the Boston trial attorney who replaced constitutional scholar Charles Alan Wright at the White House, announced Tuesday that "the President decided we would not be willing to come to an accommodation on that matter and it will be pressed."

He was talking to quash the White House efforts to quash the sixth of the subpoena series against the President—this one demanding tapes to be used as evidence in the Watergate cover-up trial next September.

Cox's successor, Leon Jaworski, also a skilled trial lawyer, had foreseen the possibility of such a move in his original request to U.S. District Judge John J. Sirica for court R. Haldeman and John D. Ehrlichman, who were once Nixon's closest aides.

Jaworski delayed his response to the motion to quash because the White House asked for more time to try to work things out amicably.

It is certain he'll claim he can make a compelling showing of need.

If Judge Sirica agrees, the case will be rushed to the court of appeals and decided there quickly enough so that a further appeal can be made to the Supreme Court before it reaches June.

Trudeau's Government Faces Election in July

OTTAWA, Canada (AP) — Canada today faced the prospect of a general election in July as the House of Commons prepared to vote on a motion of no confidence in Prime Minister Pierre Elliott Trudeau's minority government.

The motion was introduced by the two main opposition parties.

A crushing blow for Trudeau's Liberal government came during debate Tuesday on the 1974-75 budget when the New Democratic party introduced an amendment strengthening the no-confidence motion introduced by the biggest opposition party, the Conservatives.

It was the New Democrats' first major break with Trudeau, who has retained a tenuous hold on the government for 16 months by using their 31 votes to give him a majority in the 264-seat Commons.

Trudeau's Liberals have 109 seats; the Conservatives hold 107.

The vote was expected tonight.

The 54-year-old prime minister expressed doubt that the socialistic New Democrats and the Conservatives would vote together to oust him. But Conservative leader Robert Stanfield said he saw no difficulty in supporting the New Democratic amendment, which complained that the budget introduced Monday night failed to apply any measures to help pensioners or others on low or fixed incomes, to deal with the housing crisis and to remove the glaring inequalities in the tax system.

The Conservative motion said the House had lost confidence in the government because its economic plan failed "to propose effective budgetary machinery measures to contain and reduce inflation."

Despite Trudeau's refusal to admit his government was doomed, other Liberal leaders held no hope.

"I don't see any way out," said Bryce Mackasey, a former cabinet minister. "This looks like it."

Trudeau has several options if voted out, but generally was expected to ask Governor-General Jules Léger to dissolve Commons and call a general election. A minimum of 58 days must elapse between the call and voting day, and since elections in Canada traditionally are held on Monday, the most likely date would be July 8.

Metric System Rejected

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The House of Representatives has decided in effect that the United States isn't quite ready for kilometers, grams, centimeters and other trappings of the metric system, which has spread throughout most of the world since the 19th Century.

It voted down Tuesday, in a 240-154 roll call, a bill to coordinate conversion of U.S. weights and measures to the metric system. Many of the bill's backers say the change will come inevitably anyway, despite the House.

Rep. Olin Teague, D-Tex., chairman of the House Science Committee and manager of the bill that was defeated, indicated mixed feelings.

"I never expect to learn the metric system, but I believe it's good for the country," Teague said.

Maintenance Workers Strike In Britain

LONDON (UPI) — A union representing 1.2 million British maintenance workers and repairmen struck today in the nation's first major walkout since a coal mine shutdown toppled the former Conservative government.

Union leaders said the strike would hit key industries, including auto works, railroads, electricity, gas, oil and water supply and newspapers.

"It will have a disastrous effect pretty quickly," a spokesman for the striking Amalgamated Union of Engineering Workers said.

Within hours after union officials ordered the walkout Tuesday night, newspaper production stopped at all national papers except the Daily Express.

Workers at some British Leyland automobile factories in the central Midlands region — the nation's industrial heartland — walked out, forcing the firm to lay off 4,500 employees.

The West Midlands Engineering Employers Association reported receiving "hundreds of calls" warning of additional walkouts in the region.

The union's executive committee called the walkout to protest the seizure of $720,000 in union funds by the National Industrial Relations Court, set up by the former Conservative government.

The labor relations panel ordered the funds held Monday to make sure the union pays $112,800 in court-ordered compensation to the Con-Mech Engineering Co. for damage during an industrial dispute.

The union has consistently refused to recognize the court's authority.

Disclosure Bill Passes Assembly

ALBANY, N. Y. (UPI) — A bill requiring all candidates for state office to make a limited disclosure of their financial interests was approved in the Assembly Tuesday, but not before several lawmakers voting for it expressed reservations about the effectiveness of the measure.

The bill would require would-be office holders to make public any financial interests in businesses regulated by a state agency. Several legislators complained, however, that the bill failed to provide any penalty for candidates failing to make such a disclosure.

The bill, forwarded to the Senate for final consideration, was characterized by one assemblyman as "at best a public relations exercise."

Another lawmaker, also an attorney, said he would advise anyone who was his client "to simply not file."

The Assembly sponsor, Peter J. Costigan, R-Setauket, said the measure was an extension of the current public officers law which requires the disclosures be made only after a legislator is elected.

"This means that the public, before they cast their votes, can see if a candidate has any financial interests in firms or businesses regulated by the state," Costigan said.

Assemblyman Edward J. Meyer, D-Manhattan, said, "When you consider the disclosure last December by then Lt. Gov. Malcolm Wilson that he had maintained an interest in a firm throughout his years of public service . . . this bill becomes a bill of concealment rather than public disclosure."

Another critic, Assemblyman Irwin J. Landis, D-Great Neck, said, "The wording of this bill is a joke" because it leaves the decision as to what information must be reported to the candidate's discretion.

The bill, forwarded to the Senate after nearly unanimous adoption by the Assembly, requires disclosure of candidate holdings in any business regulated by the Departments of Agriculture and Markets, State (other than corporations), Public Service, Banking, and Insurance or by the State Liquor Authority or the Board of Standards and Appeals 45 days before a primary or general election.

In other legislative action

Tuesday, the Senate approved a motor vehicle registration bill that would sharply limit smoking in any form on public mass transportation as well as in libraries, museums and theaters.

Sponsored by Sen. John Dunne, R-Garden City, the bill would establish a minimum $10 fine and a maximum penalty of $100.

The proposal, which now goes to the Assembly, would not apply to rest rooms, lobbies or sections of public facilities designated as smoking areas. Unless an area was covered by the exemptions, it would be against the law to smoke during a movie, play, musical recital, dance or lecture.

Final legislative approval of this session's court reform measures—two proposed constitutional amendments and one ordinary bill—was granted by the Senate.

The amendments, if approved by the next legislative session and the voters in November 1975, would set up a commission on judicial conduct to discipline judges; establish with Senate approval a court administrator appointed by the chief judge of the Court of Appeals; and provide for an eventual state takeover of court costs statewide.

The bill would set up a temporary commission on judicial conduct to serve until the permanent body was established under the constitutional change.

The proposals, sponsored by Sen. Bernard G. Gordon, R-Peekskill, were previously passed by the Senate, but slightly amended in the Assembly and had to be reapproved by the Senate.

A bill appropriating $1.3 million for a system of bike paths was approved in the Assembly. The sponsor, John D. Caemmerer, R-East Willis would go toward the construction of bike trails, which could also be funded by $2 million from the federal government.

The Assembly turned down a plan by Assemblyman Albert J. Hausbeck, R-Buffalo, to put the state into the now-illegal numbers business.

Hausbeck's proposal, he said, would have raised $208 million a year by the sale of four-digit "lota perfecta" tickets on a special horse race.

He said the four numbers would be chosen by the better, but the numbers on the horses to run in the special race would be assigned immediately before the start of the race. The winner would have to pick the numbers of the first four horses finishing.

The proposal was rejected by a vote of 70-65, six short of the number of votes needed for passage.

Beame's 'Tax Package' Approved

ALBANY, N.Y. (UPI) — The legislature Tuesday night overcame its election year distaste for tax increases by approving most of New York City's "tax package," including a 1-cent on the dollar increase in the sales tax.

The sales tax increase, which would bring the city an additional $203 million while raising the rate in the city to 8 cents on the dollar compared to a maximum 7 cents elsewhere in the state, gained approval in the Assembly, 81-50, and in the Senate, 34-24.

It cleared the Assembly with no comment, but touched off a long debate in the Senate with a Republican lawmaker accusing New York City Mayor Abraham D. Beame of not doing enough to cut costs and Democrats defending the mayor.

Opposition in both houses mostly came from Republicans, with all GOP lawmakers representing districts in the city voting in opposition along with a scattering of upstate Republicans and Democrats.

The minority Democratic leadership in both houses had agreed to deliver Democratic votes when Beame and Gov. Malcolm Wilson reached agreement on measures to close an estimated $818 million gap in the city's $12.2 billion budget.

The legislature also approved, generally along the same political and geographical lines as the sales tax increase, bills which would:

—Extend for one-year the city's personal income tax on residents and earnings tax on non-residents who work in the city.

—An increase in taxes on utilities and transportation companies.

—Permission to accept advance payments on state funds due to the city in the coming fiscal year.

The lawmakers did not deal with another key proposal in the fiscal plan—the imposition of a 5 per cent surcharge on off-track betting wagers. That proposal reportedly is still facing considerable opposition. It would raise about $30 million for the city.

The increase in the sales tax is supposed to be for only one-year, but critics have contended that a tax, once raised or imposed, is seldom lowered or repealed.

Sen. Frank Padavan, R-Jamaica, charged that Beame, who had announced 2,500 provisional employees would be laid off or not hired, was practicing tokenism in the payroll cuts. He said that the city employed 400,000 persons and could trim more than 2,500 jobs. He also accused Beame of failing to eliminate the so-called super-agencies set-up to oversee some of the city's vast programs, such as welfare.

"He has not taken one step in that direction," Padavan said. Democrats, led by Sen. Jeremiah B. Bloom, hotly defended Beame and claimed that "While no one wants more taxes, we must take the responsible course."

Sen. Emanuel R. Gold, D-Queens, said he was reluctantly voting for the tax package because the "people want services and the piper must be paid—but I want it understood that this is a Beame tax package. He asked for it and we are going to deliver it to him."

SLA Watches Alioto's Daughter

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — San Francisco Mayor Joseph Alioto confirmed today that members of the Symbionese Liberation Army had been keeping watch on his daughter and her children, and his daughter spoke to one of the terrorists sought in the Hearst kidnapping.

San Francisco police spread plainclothes officers throughout the neighborhood and had armed men in the Mayor's daughter's home, hoping the SLA members would return and be trapped.

Alioto said "the story should not have been" made public. In San Francisco, police Lt. Paul Lawler told reporters that the mayor's daughter, Angela Veronese, saw suspicious persons observing her home, or speaking to her children, ages 5, 3, and 1, as they played in the street, about three weeks ago.

Mrs. Veronese talked with a white woman who questioned her children, and later positive-ly identified her from police photos as Emily Schwartz Harris, one of the nine suspects sought by the FBI for the kidnapping of Patricia Hearst, Lawler said.

Mrs. Harris is the wife of William Taylor Harris, another of the suspects sought by the FBI in the Hearst kidnapping.

Lawler denied reports that a black man or men had been sighted keeping watch on Mrs. Veronese's home, saying he had no such information from her.

Beginning last week, the police department stationed "low profile officers, none recognizable as police" throughout the immediate neighborhood, and armed officers in the house, Lawler said.

He said the New York Times learned of the incident several days ago, and the police department has been asking the Times not to reveal the existence of the trap at Mrs. Veronese's house.

KINGSTON, NEW YORK, MAY 8, 1974

By JACK ANDERSON

WASHINGTON — A master plan for using the government machinery to win votes for President Nixon in 1972 is laid out in memos which the White House is still trying to suppress.

The memos, stamped for the "Eyes Only" of top Nixon aides, assign former White House staff chief H. R. Haldeman the job of seeing "that government programs are responsive to and coordinated with campaign needs."

One memo revealed that "we have already started a number of thrusts to ensure that the power of the incumbency is used." In plainer language, this meant that the President was using his power over the government to generate votes.

The master plan, at least in part, was put into effect. Grants were given to ethnic groups which supported the President. High-paying patronage jobs were offered to powerful politicians to lure them on the Nixon bandwagon. Government contracts went to the favored. Those who opposed Nixon were squeezed out.

The plan was drafted by White House efficiency expert Fred Malek, who is now the President's deputy chief budget officer. His 1972 co-schemers were Haldeman and John Mitchell. The latter was then preparing to step down as attorney general to become the President's campaign chief.

The Malek memos, dated February 16, 1972, are written in the high Watergate literary style which seeks to conceal from outsiders what it discloses to insiders. Yet a close reading shows how the White House planned to gear government policies to politics.

Under Haldeman's guidance, according to the memos, the White House Domestic Council was already "posturing the President correctly . . . on major issues" to gain maximum political exploitation.

Haldeman also was supposed to work through George Shultz, then the federal budget boss with control over the purse strings, to make sure that government departments cooperated.

"George's people will play a major role in seeing the departmental actions to the greatest extent possible are supportive of the reelection effort," Malek proposed.

Malek himself was to "strengthen responsiveness of patronage to campaign needs." This would include such tactics as throwing judgeships to powerful minority leaders. Malek also would guide government grants to opinion molders among ethnic, aging and other special groups.

In addition, Malek was to use his influence at the White House and his "intimate knowledge of campaign priorities" in "guiding campaign voting bloc efforts."

But outwardly, both Haldeman and Malek would remain on the White House staff, "keeping pressure on the programs discussed earlier and insuring that these programs are responsive to and coordinated with campaign needs," according to the secret political blueprint.

Malek would bring "relevant campaign and Domestic Council staff members together to ensure later are totally familiar with policy needs and priorities of various constituent groups." They would play upon the problems of these groups, such as "payment of prescription drugs for elderly" to generate votes.

Malek would also use specially planted Nixon loyalists in the government departments to help the campaign. "My people would use the departmental political structure to make specific requests needed by the campaign," Malek explained, adding: "I anticipate no problem."

The busy Malek would work with state officials on "priority environmental projects or Presidential policy pronouncements" to rally voters behind Nixon. The memo stresses that "much of the success . . . will depend on actions by the President and the Administration."

My associate Les Whitten reached Malek at the White House. The plan Malek insisted, was never fully put into effect. "That wasn't done," he said. The proposals were merely "talking points," some of which never came up in his key meetings with Mitchell and Haldeman, explained Malek.

Contrary to his assurances, however, our investigation found that many features of the plan were implemented. We will write more about this in future columns.

PETROLEUM PLEDGE: Plagued by leaks about its shenanigans during the oil crisis, Standard Oil of California is quietly asking employees to swear a solemn oath they will not leak out "sensitive information."

The ink was just drying on the loyalty oath form, however, when it was leaked to us by a Standard Oil of California employee, along with other "sensitive" Standard Oil information.

Under the instructions accompanying the loyalty oath, the employee swears not to "use or disclose sensitive company information . . . during or after employment in a manner that might be prejudicial to the best interests of the company whether or not for personal gain." In fact, the employees are told to avoid even situations where it may look like they are leaking "sensitive company information."

At Standard's headquarters in San Francisco, an astonished spokesman demanded, "How did Jack Anderson get a hold of that form?" He insisted the oath represented a "long-standing policy" and pointed out that the oath requires that the employees "understand" the rules, but does not threaten summary dismissal if the rules are broken.

The spokesman said the loyalty pledge had nothing to do with current congressional efforts to squeeze information out of Standard and other ARAMCO partners following our revelations that ARAMCO has been bamboozling both Saudi Arabia and the U.S. consumer.

St. Clair's Role

The House Judiciary Committee's agreement to permit President Nixon's chief Watergate attorney a significant role in impeachment hearings appeals to one's sense of fairness. This action suggests that the committee is bending over backwards to assure unquestionably just treatment for the President.

We agree with this approach on philosophical grounds, and maintain that every man accused of wrongdoing—even a President of the United States whose record in office is being formally scrutinized by Congress—has a right to such treatment. Perhaps this even applies with more force than usual under these circumstances. It would be disastrous were the public given reason to think the President has been hustled from office without every opportunity to state his case and put up the best defense he could muster.

At the same time, we feel it should be noted that in its procedural rules the Judiciary Committee has gone quite far toward changing the fundamental character of the impeachment proceedings. Basically this inquiry and the attendant hearings must not be viewed as a trial; the proceedings are, rather, an attempt to sift and weigh a mass of evidence for and against the proposition that Mr. Nixon has committed impeachable offenses.

The President's counsel, James D. St. Clair, will nevertheless be permitted wide latitude at the hearings. He will have the right to see all the evidence, to question witnesses, to raise objections to testimony. About the only thing denied him will be the privilege of cross-examination, and this restriction may not be rigorously enforced.

Thus it can be seen that at hearings intended to get at the truth and lay grounds for conclusions about presidential conduct, Mr. Nixon's lawyer will enjoy most of the rights he would be accorded as defense counsel in a trial. And then, should the House vote impeachment, he will be able to have another go at it in an actual trial before the Senate.

Some see the Judiciary Committee action as going too far in the name of fairness. That is a defensible contention, but on balance we think the committee acted wisely. Far better to err on the side of fairness than to interpret over-narrowly the limits on "defense" participation in impeachment hearings.

Simon at Treasury

William Simon, President Nixon's nominee to replace departing Treasury Secretary George Shultz, will be denied the broad economic powers enjoyed by his predecessor.

Simon, who rose to fame as the country's energy czar, will not assume the mantle of economic czar when he takes over the Treasury Department.

Instead, Mr. Nixon himself is to take on an expanded role in economic affairs beoming chairman of the Council on Economic Review. That was the job held by Mr. Simon's predecessor. Mr. Shultz also held the influential title of Assistant to the President, occupied a White House office, and reigned over a vast field of domestic and international affairs.

Of course, it is important to point out that with the expiration of price controls and dismantling the Cost of Living Council the government's economic policy will not have the same impact upon the marketplace as it did under the direction of Mr. Shultz.

With the overlapping of duties peculiar to the Nixon administration however, Mr. Simon will continue to exert a strong influence on the operations of the Federal Energy Office in which he has recently won high marks as an administrator.

And his association with Mr. Shultz as deputy Treasury secretary has helped shape his philosophy to include a dislike for the controls that seem to have upset the balance between supply and demand.

Simon's demonstrated aggressiveness suggests that his talents will not be allowed to languish in his Cabinet post. He is an able organizer and should be a capable leader in the readjustment to a free economy.

Mr. Simon is thought of as a man who thrives on challenge. Because of this, it is felt that the new Treasury secretary will not take a back seat without a fight.

WASHINGTON — A vicious backstage assault by the White House and the powerful auto industry against the Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) has been masterminded by federal budget chief Roy Ash without once talking to EPA director Russell Train.

The fight is over whether EPA should be stripped of power to test new automobiles for "fuel economy" — that is, how many miles-per-gallon they can get. Long despised by the auto industry as being run by sophomoric fanatics, EPA has been measuring miles-per-gallon efficiency of new cars for the past year as an offshoot of its legal mandate to control auto pollution.

"If you took a poll in Detroit, no agency in Washington would be more unpopular than EPA," a top-level Ash aide told us. The auto moguls claim EPA findings are unfair and amateurish. So, in accord with the Nixon administration's well-established rule of cottoning to big business and ignoring the consumer, Ash's Office of Management and Budget (OMB) has been plotting a switch of the fuel-economy role from EPA to either the Commerce Department or Transportation Department — both safely industry-oriented.

But behind the White House effort to strip testing from the consumer-oriented EPA is a more dangerous game which looks suspiciously like a clandestine administration effort to gut its own auto-pollution controls program. The target was spelled out by an EPA emission-controls expert in the terse language of this confidential memorandum to Train April 26:

"What we see as really involved in the proposed move of fuel economy testing out of EPA is an effort to emasculate EPA in any future fight over the auto emission standards . . . All real influence depends on the ability to obtain, assimilate and use information."

That memo, signed by deputy assistant administrator Eric Stork, said that what saved the Clean Air Standards Act during last winter's critical gasoline shortage was EPA's control of engineering and technology data on which emission standards are based.

In short, once it loses power to tell consumers how many miles-per-gallon a new car will make, EPA is convinced it will next be plundered of its whole emission-controls authority. The likely benefactor: the Commerce Department, never famed for protecting consumers.

Throughout this backdoor attack on EPA, Ash himself has never once discussed the problem with Train (although for the first time this week lower-level OMB officials began talks with EPA). In contrast, Ash has had lengthy chats about EPA with Detroit moguls, such as Ford's president Lee Iacocca, who came to see Ash in his office the first week in March. Ash told us he also had discussed the rape of EPA with Secretary of Transportation Claude Brinegar, who might win the mileage-testing program, and with top Commerce Department officials.

Ash, whose immense power in the Nixon White House is still growing, told us that "satisfying the consumer" is the main reason for the projected shakeup. During the peak of the energy shortage, Ash was Mr. Nixon's chief henchman in warning EPA that its emission standards were wasting vast amounts of scarce gasoline. Indisputable car-owner anger over EPA's emission controls was exploited by Ash to pressure EPA to relax its congressionally-imposed standards.

EPA admits shortcomings in its own mileage-testing and is now correcting them. But the most compelling part of its argument for retaining mileage-testing is incontrovertible: the testing is done in Detroit as part of EPA's emission-controls testing and costs virtually nothing. As Stork said in his memorandum to Train: "Any other agency would face a mammoth job of setting up facilities."

To Ash, as guardian of the President's budget, that would seem to be good reason in itself for leaving EPA in charge. But Ash's goal in this matter is not saving money but satisfying the automotive chieftains in Detroit.

Being Swindled in Two Ways

Nothing matches the superficial stupidity of television, to my way of thinking, unless it is that little word wrencher, TV Guide. Its purpose, I would surmise, is to guide, like a miniature phone directory. All I ask is for it to tell me what programs, at what time, on what station, with a big "R" for "Repeat" always at the top of it's an oldie goldy.

I care not a fig for their advertisements, articles and art. Unless I have flipped my fright wig, they do not even number their pages in sequence. It is a chore to find today's listing before today expires.

As an old-time magazine editor, I harbor a suspicion that TV Guide regards itself as a dwarfed Saturday Evening Post. I opened last week's edition to find that someone named Joseph Finnegan wants to tell me that Lena Horne hopes to do a talk show. I am electrified to learn that that paragon of the parsable sentence, Mr. Hugh Downs, will be the executive producer.

The excitement is endless. On the next page, there is a drawing of a kitchen faucet with water pouring from it. "Does Mitchum Anti-Perspirant seal your pores?" it asks. The answer is no: "It just takes a different, perfectly natural way out." Gotcha, Mitchum.

There is a two-page color layout of some girl named Sally Field reading inside her own trailer, something completely unknown to stars until now. Bill Davidson writes a two-part series of articles about Bud Yorkin and Norman Lear, whom I surmise are television producers.

Mr. Davidson won't tell who said this, but he writes: "One top CBS executive said confidently: 'Right now, at the end of the season, the actors are tired.'" I'm exhausted, and I don't get paid for watching those actors.

It is like this, page after unending page. John D. Lofton, who sounds irritated because Dick Cavett did not respond to letters, writes of one Cavett couch chat: "I thought it stunk." An erudite and detailed assessment. Overly tactful.

TV Guide claims 42 million readers. I would quibble with editor Alexander H. Joseph about the number of purchasers who do any more reading that I, which is an effort to locate today's listing. I skip Judith Crist. Cleveland Amory is another likely story.

I think the Guide should be a guide from front to back. I suspect it works harder to plug the shows and personalities than it does to inform. Why not a campaign for fewer and shorter commercials on television?

The airwaves are still owned by the people of America. No one can object to TV stations earning a profit, but why must we submit to the same sales-pitch closing on the same weak joke every night? Isn't it possible to sell an automobile or a soap by displaying it and explaining its function?

Local news is weak these days because the stations like to back it with film footage. This leads to portraits of politicians and politicos pontificating on new highways, old highways, model cities, taxes, inflation and, last but not least, vote-for-nit.

Sports interviews with coaches of any sport go like this: "Well, I tell ya, we gonin' pretty good right now, and if Charlie doan bust his knee again and nobody gets hurt an' the rest of the league drops dead, well, we could finish maybe somewhere in the first division — know what I mean?"

In my town, we have a meteorologist who points to Denver and (cross my heart) says, "They're having some weather out there." We are also affected with a news chief who delivers a reduction ad absurdum editorial every day. I surmise he favors motherhood without equivocation and is opposed to bad guys, whoever they may be.

My wife, who retires with a can of potato chips, a soggy salad left from supper and a pot of tea, watches the movie with interest while reading Cosmopolitan. After 20 minutes, she shouts, "I remember it now. We saw it twice."

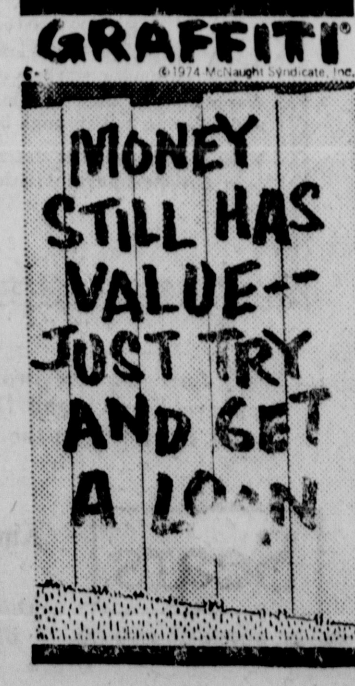

I look in TV Guide. The "R" for "Repeat" isn't alongside this film's listing. The local stations keep leasing these seven-dollar epics, and some cut in every six minutes with a commercial. Not a new one, of course.

In sum, my friends, I feel swindled. Two ways — once by the Guide and once by the tube. And give me a good mark for restraint in using the word swindled . . .

PIKE DONATES PAINTING — Famed Woodstock artist John Pike (L), Paul DeLissio, a member of the advisory board of the Benedictine Hospital and a Woodstock resident, center; and Harry C. Kaprlian, general chairman of the Benedictine Hospital '76 Diamond Jubilee Campaign, are shown with Pike's dramatic watercolor, "Moonlit Maelstrom," which he has given to the campaign. The painting will be awarded at some future date to add to campaign coffers and help make new facilities and an expanded program of health care at Benedictine Hospital a reality. The campaign has reached $1.1 million towards the $1.5 million goal. Pike, a long-time friend of the Benedictine, has previously donated paintings which have yielded four-figure sums for the hospital.

Green Berets... A Reduction

WASHINGTON (AP) — The new battalions of Rangers to be formed. Special Forces, once this country's glamour troops, are being cut back again as the Army builds a new elite force of light infantry.

Army officials say the strength of the Green Berets is being reduced to about 5,000 men with the withdrawal of the last 1,400 special forces troopers from the Taiwan and Okinawa by June 30. The peak strength was 11,700 in 1968.

When the pullout was announced some time ago, it was indicated the men would be sent to Special Forces units in the United States.

But officials now say most will be reassigned to other Army duties and that many will be encouraged to join three new battalions of Rangers to be formed.

Although the numbers involved are small, the decline of the Special Forces underscores a shift from major concern about guerrilla warfare toward highly mobile units tailored to fight conventional battles in Europe and possibly the Middle East.

The Green Berets got their big boost in the early 1960s when President John F. Kennedy and his advisers feared Communist China and Russia would promote guerrilla style "wars of national liberation" in Asia, Latin America and Africa.

Kennedy administration officials believed the tough, versatile forces, operating in small teams, could be instrumental in helping developing countries overcome such insurgencies.

In South Vietnam, where they reached their zenith, the special forces recruited, taught and led Vietnamese irregulars in reconnoitering and harassing North Vietnamese infiltrators. Sometimes they made forays into neighboring Cambodia and Southern Laos for this purpose.

The only Green Berets overseas will be a battalion in Germany and another in the Panama Canal Zone. Special Forces training teams from the Canal Zone have been helping some Latin American governments troubled by insurgency problems.

Meanwhile, the planned formation of three Ranger battalions represents a revival of a force created in World War II, when the Rangers were modeled after the British Commandos.

The aim of the new program is to provide specially trained light infantry units that can be moved where needed in a crisis even more swiftly than airborne battalions because they will be unencumbered by artillery, vehicles and other heavy equipment.

Numbering 588 officers and men, Ranger battalions will be about 200 fewer in strength than conventional Army battalions. Their biggest weapon will be 90mm recoilless guns, lightweight but heavy hitting. Each battalion will have only two jeeps and no other rolling stock.

Lockout or Strike... News Uses Automation

NEW YORK (UPI) — Printers decided to continue work as man said the News was ready to resume negotiations, but no one was reported hurt. One printer was arrested Tuesday in a brief bottle-throwing incident as hundreds of policemen, scores of them in riot gear, patrolled the loading docks behind the News Building and the New York Times. The News called it a strike and printed today's editions without them, using new, automated equipment.

The printers, unhappy with contract talks, began a work slowdown April 18, reducing the News' advertising. The dispute came to a head Monday night when the newspaper first tried its automated practices.

The printers, ordered out of the building after their union president, Bertram Powers, destroyed a magnesium plate, then set up picket lines with signs reading "locked out."

But their parent organization, the International Typographical Union, did not endorse the action, saying as long as printers were free to return to work, there was no lockout. Nine other unions whose members work at the News

Dollar, Gold Loses Ground

LONDON (UPI) — The U.S. franc, down from Tuesday's dollar lost more ground in 39.45 francs. Gold dropped another 75 cents overnight in London.

Despite a strike by 1.2 million opening at $162 an ounce. In British maintenance workers Zurich, it fell $1 from Tuesday's closing rate, also opening against the dollar, at $162.

In Frankfurt, the dollar opened at $2.4217 compared with Tuesday's closing of $2.4156.

The dollar lost fractionally in most other European markets. In Amsterdam, it fell from Tuesday's 2.595 guilders to 2.5763 guilders today. It opened in Zurich at 2.9065 Swiss francs, down from 2.933 francs. The Brussels free market priced the U.S. currency at 39.325 Belgian francs Tuesday.

Russo Returns To Ulster On Thursday

KINGSTON — Ulster County Jail escapee Scott Russo, who is currently serving a 15-day sentence in Dutchess County Jail for operating a motorcycle without insurance, is scheduled to be returned Thursday to Ulster County where he will face charges of escape, according to Ulster County Sheriff's deputies.

Russo, 18, who fled from the Ulster County Jail Feb. 25, was picked up April 26 in Poughkeepsie while operating a motorcycle allegedly stolen from the Saugerties area. On Tuesday, Russo pleaded guilty in Poughkeepsie City Court to unauthorized use of a motor vehicle and was sentenced to time served on the lack of insurance charge, clearing the way for his return to Ulster County.

Between Feb. 25 and April 26, Russo and Leroy Struber, 17, with whom Russo fled from the jail, had traveled to central Maine where they were arrested for stealing a snowmobile. The two served about six weeks in a Somerset County, Me., jail using aliases before they fled from a work release program there on April 24.

New Volcanic Eruption Is Reported

REYKJAVIK, Iceland (AP) — The Keflavik control tower said a U.S. military plane radioed today that a massive new volcanic eruption has begun in the seabed off Iceland.

It said the aircraft reported steam towering up into the sky, about 46 miles southwest of Keflavik.

Observers on the mainland said the report indicated the seabed had been smashed open and hot lava was shooting up causing the sea to turn to steam.

The reported eruption is about 70 miles from Heimaey in the Westman Islands where an eruption that began Jan. 23, 1973 destroyed one-third of the town.

Golden Cat On the Loose

SAUGERTIES — Residents of the Town of Saugerties area have been asked to contact Town Police if they spot a gold-colored house cat that appears about twice as big as it should be.

The cat — a domesticated Asian Golden Cat — ran off from the Tri-County Zoo on Route 32 north of Saugerties sometime Monday night and has not been seen since.

The cat, which weighs about 40 pounds, "is definitely tame," according to Mrs. Harold Barnett, proprietor of the Zoo. Mrs. Barnett said the cat was born and raised in captivity.

Saugerties Town Police said the animal looks like a house cat... except that it is about twice as big as a normal house cat.

State Police Arrest Man

TOWN OF NEW PALTZ — A 26-year-old Rosendale man, stopped on a routine traffic check shortly before 1 a.m. today in the Town of New Paltz, was charged by state police with felony possession of stolen property and criminal trespass when troopers found an estimated $344 worth of copper wire allegedly stolen earlier in the man's car.

Police said Richard M. Raphael of Box 65, Star Route, Rosendale, had allegedly taken the wire from a Central Hudson substation in the Town of Lloyd.

Raphael was specifically arrested for second degree possession of stolen property and second degree criminal trespass. He was stopped on Route 299.

Arraigned before New Paltz Town Justice Rexford Schneider, Raphael was confined in Ulster County Jail in lieu of $500 bail to await a reappearance in court Friday.

Memoriam
In loving memory of my husband Arthur Peck, who passed away one year ago today May 7, 1973.

He wished no one a last farewell.

Nor even said goodbye. He was gone before I knew it. And only God knows why.

His busy hands are resting now. His work on earth is done. His worries are all over. His heavenly crown is won. It only takes a little space To write how much I miss him. But it will take the rest of my life.

To forget the day I lost him. Sadly missed. Wife,

DID YOU HEAR THE ONE ABOUT THE TRAVELING SALESMAN WHO GOT A HIGHWAY EMERGENCY KIT WITH HIS CHASE CAR LOAN?

"That's a very beautiful emergency kit," said the traveling salesman; "it certainly would be a handsome addition to the new car I'm planning to buy."

"Well," replied the Chase Manhattan loan officer, "anyone who takes out a car loan of $2,000 or more between April 1st and June 30th gets one of these kits free."

The traveling salesman did not want to appear too anxious in front of the banker. "Is it practical?" he asked.

The banker smiled, opened the luggage-like carrying case and began describing the contents.

"An aerosol fire extinguisher, good for all types of small fires, even electrical, oil or grease."

"An aerosol tire inflator, with a latex sealer that inflates and seals flat tires in less than a minute."

"An emergency blinker with a large suction cup base that you can position on your car top or the roadside. It's visible for miles."

"A high-intensity spotlight with a 12-foot cord that plugs into your cigarette lighter."

"Eight-foot booster cables. Six-foot gas siphon pump. A first-aid kit complete with a 25-page first-aid book."

The salesman was amazed. "And you're giving this away? Free? Why it must be worth at least $19.95 retail!"

"Exactly," answered the banker. "You have a good eye for value. Were you ever a banker?"

"No," said the salesman, "I work for a living."

The banker did not laugh. Oh, he was friendly enough, but after all!

"There's only one problem," said the salesman. "I may not be able to pick out the car I want before June 30th."

So the banker told him that if he signed up now, Chase would reserve his car loan for 100 days at no charge.

Not only would he get his free highway emergency kit as soon as the loan was approved, but he'd have plenty of time to shop around for a good deal on a new car. So the salesman signed, and left the bank convinced that this was the best car loan deal he had ever experienced.

If you're a traveling salesman, doctor, painter or anybody looking for a practical, worthwhile free gift with your car loan, we hope this particular traveling salesman story will make you smile—all the way to our bank.

Chief Cites Bike Safety

KINGSTON — With 15 million bicycles sold across the nation last year, and estimates pointing to even higher sales this year, bicycle safety education has never been more important, according to Kingston Police Chief Julius M. Glassman, who has chosen May — American Bike Month — to pass on recommendations about bicycle safety.

"The energy crisis, the emphasis on ecology, and common sense dictate increased use of the bicycle, and not just by children," Glassman said. "We must increase our bicycle safety education in the schools, at home by parents, and in cooperation with our local law enforcement and service agencies."

In addition to recommending regular maintenance inspections and observance of local ordinances and state regulations regarding bicycles, Glassman urged that the following rules of the road, issued by the Bicycle Institute of America, be followed during May and throughout the year:

● Obey all applicable traffic regulations, signs, signals and markings.

● Observe all local ordinances pertaining to bicycles.

● Keep right; drive with traffic, not against it. Drive single file.

● Watch out for drain grates, soft shoulders and other road surface hazards.

● Watch out for car doors opening, or for cars pulling into traffic.

● Don't carry passengers or packages that interfere with your vision or control.

● Never hitch a ride on a truck or other vehicle.

● Be extremely careful at intersections, especially when making a left turn.

● Use hand signals to indicate turning or stopping.

● Protect yourself at night with the required red reflectors and lights.

● Drive a safe bike: have it inspected to insure mechanical condition.

● Drive your bike defensively: watch out for the other guy.

New Detection Device Used by State Police

ALBANY will come on. If the alcohol device could be the means for saving lives by the detection of drunken drivers who appear to be sober.

A relatively new device for determining whether a motorist has been drinking alcoholic beverages is now being used by State Troopers on highways in the Albany area under a federally-aided program aimed at curbing drunken driving, the New York State Police announced.

Twenty instruments, called Alcohol Screening Devices, are being carried in troop cars patrolling counties in Troop G.

Any driver who has committed a violation of the vehicle and traffic laws or who has been involved in an accident may be asked by a Trooper to submit to a screening test. The test involves breathing into the instrument through a plastic mouthpiece which is discarded after being used once.

The motorist can decline to submit to a screening test, but to refuse a test constitutes a traffic infraction in addition to other charges he may already be facing, according to state police.

The screening devices, which are about the size of a large transistor radio and weigh about three pounds, show by means of lights the range of alcohol, if any, in the blood of a person being screened. If the driver has an alcohol-blood ratio by weight of less than .06 per cent, he is in the clear and will be so advised by a green light. If his blood has an alcohol content of from .06 to .09 per cent, which is the range of intoxication legally defined as "driving while ability is impaired," a yellow warning light device could be the means for saving lives by the detection of drunken drivers who appear to be sober.

"The driver whose senses have been dulled by alcohol is the number one killer on the highway," he said. "We welcome the use of any tool that holds the promise of reducing alcohol-related accidents, which often strike down innocent persons while the drinking driver escapes unscathed."

Lonstein Continues Hospital Tenure

ELLENVILLE

Ellenville attorney, Benjamin Lonstein has been elected to his 22nd term as president of Ellenville Community Hospital, it was announced following the recent annual reorganization meeting of the hospital Board of Directors.

Officers elected to serve with Lonstein include: William Collier, first vice-president; Louis Resnick, second vice-president; Morris Solomon, treasurer; and Leon Friedman, secretary.

Lonstein was elected to the board of directors of Veterans Memorial Hospital in 1945 and served his first term as president in 1952.

Six directors were also reelected to three year terms and one new director was elected to fill a two-year vacancy.

Mrs. Constance Feldshuh of Kerhonkson was elected to fill the board vacancy created by the death of Mrs. Frederica Kaiser. Mrs. Feldshuh is a former president of the hospital auxiliary and has demonstrated an active interest in hospital and community affairs.

Reelected were: Mrs. Harriet Breslow; Leon Friedman; Arthur Lipson; Harry Reiger; Morris Solomon; and David Swinden.

The 18 member Board of Directors is the governing body of the voluntary, not-for-profit, membership corporation which operates the hospital. Neither directors nor officers receive any remuneration of any kind for their hospital service. The terms of one-third of the board members expire each year. Election of directors takes place each year at the hospital corporation membership meeting.

NEW YORK (UPI) — Stock prices opened virtually unchanged in quiet trading today on the New York Stock Exchange.

The Dow Jones industrial average was at the level it closed Tuesday—847.15—a few minutes after the opening bell. Advances and declines were closely balanced, of the 711 stocks across the tape.

Investors have found little in the news to revive their interest in the stock market. With record-high money market rates, and bond market yields offering a relatively safe and easy return on the investment dollar, the stock market has sagged for lack of bids for months.

Public Blamed For Inflation

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Part of the blame for current economic woes lies with the American public, which gets the inflation it wants and deserves, says the administration's top economist.

Herbert Stein, chairman of President Nixon's Council of Economic Advisors, told a meeting of economists sponsored by the American Enterprise Institute, a private research group, that public opinion polls show inflation to be the major domestic problem. "Nevertheless, it may be that while the American people rate the evil of inflation heavily, they are unwilling to pay the price of stopping it and this is only another way of saying we get the inflation we want and deserve," Stein said.

He was referring to higher unemployment, rising interest rates and slowdowns in many parts of the economy.

Stein also scoffed at a bill sponsored by Senate Democrats that would immediately cut taxes.

"This proposal is being rationalized as necessary to combat unemployment but if it is adopted, it will be as much because people like to have their taxes reduced as because they are eager to stimulate the economy," he said.

Taking a different tack, a governor of the Federal Reserve Board said the public will eventually demand strong anti-inflation action, foreshadowing a confrontation between bankers and the government's money managers.

In a speech Tuesday in Lincoln, Neb., Robert C. Holland told the Nebraska Bankers Association annual convention.

The only big weapon left is the money supply, which is controlled by the Federal Reserve, he said.

"... If monetary policy is to be a workhorse in that anti-inflationary endeavor, then I must say to you that banks are in for an uncomfortable time," Holland told the Nebraska Bankers Association annual convention.

A tighter money policy will mean banks will have less money to lend and will have to lend it at higher interest rates.

Civil Service, SEIU Plan Action Tonight

KINGSTON — Action by the two unions who want to represent Ulster County's 900 employees is planned on two fronts tonight — with the Service Employee International Union planning a protest demonstration in Woodstock at 5:30 p.m. and the Civil Service Employees Association holding its first meeting between CSEA bargainers and the county since the County Legislature hired a management firm to assist in negotiations.

SEIU supporters, who wish to represent the county employees instead of CSEA, said they will meet at the Woodstock Village Green and drive to the home of Legislator William R. West (R-Dist. 4), to protest the fact that West had previously proposed that a resolution before the Legislature calling for the reopening of salary contracts be tabled. SEIU supporters said they plan to continue their demonstrations in the future and will take their case to all of the 73 county legislators.

Meanwhile, Rex Trowbridge, chief negotiator for the local CSEA group expressed concern over the challenge by SEIU "at this sensitive time." "When relief is needed now," Trowbridge said, "it is most unfortunate that a threatening challenge by another union may further postpone negotiations."

In April, the Legislature retained the Albany management firm of Thelan Associates as advisors "in the several-month-old push by county workers to get what they claim is an urgently needed salary hike, retroactive to Jan. 1 of this year," Trowbridge said. Joseph Kelly of the Thelan firm will represent the county and Trowbridge will head the CSEA seven-man negotiating team at tonight's meeting.

"We are definitely not asking for the impossible," Trowbridge said. "When we said some ago, in the face of the sky-rocketing cost of living, that we needed an equity adjustment of $1.188 a year for each employee, we meant just that and we have the figures to show it." He said he felt the Legislature's consultation.

Rail Report Stresses Data

WASHINGTON, D.C. — The Interstate Commerce Commission has published a report on the northeast railroad system criticizing the Department of Transportation's rail study for using insufficient data, Rep. Benjamin A. Gilman (R-26) reports.

Betros Bill Aids Charities

ALBANY — A bill which would allow religious, charitable and other non-profit organizations to conduct games of chance other than bingo or lotto has been passed by the Assembly and sent to the Senate according to Assemblyman Emeel Betros (R-99th Dist.) sponsor of the measure.

A proposed amendment to the State Constitution it needs approval by two separately elected Legislatures before being put before the voters. The existing language of the constitution, Betros said, provides for local option requiring community approval before additional games of chance could be conducted within its boundaries.

Under the legislation churches, volunteer firemen's associations, veterans organizations and similar groups would be allowed to conduct games of chance based on winning numbers, colors or symbols resulting from spinning a wheel, a drawing or other methods.

Betros said that with the exception of broadening the games of chance such organizations are now allowed to conduct, the existing constitutional provisions would remain unchanged.

Schechter Names Wife to Staff

LAKE HILL

William Schechter, candidate for the Democratic nomination for Congress in the 27th District, has announced that he has appointed his wife, Lucille Haley Schechter, as campaign public relations director.

Mrs. Schechter, a former stockbroker with Bache & Co., has experience in mass communications. She was an account executive for Norman, Craig & Kummel, one of the world's largest advertising agencies, and was merchandising editor for Harper's Bazaar. She currently is director of public relations for both the non-profit Ulster Youth Theater of Kingston, and for the Woodstock Playhouse.

Schechter said he "feels sorry for any member of the media who gives us less than fair treatment. But in all seriousness, Lucille will be a tremendous asset to the campaign. She has never tackled an assignment in all the years I've known her that she hasn't done well," he said.

Schechter is supported by Ulster County Democratic Chairman Harold Brown Jr.

Mason Opposes Arts Proposal

HOBART money is available, we ought to I'm not opposed to the world essential luxury program, other New York State's proposed cut taxes — and save the money of art. I admire a great picture states get along without it, why expenditure of more than $30 — at least use the money for a piece of statuary or other can't we? We should cut out million on the Council on the better purposes."

Arts is 34 times as much as all the other states put together, according to State Sen. Edwyn E. Mason (R-48th Dist.) who is "strongly against this huge expenditure of public money for such purposes."

"The public has the right to know the full truth," Mason said, pointing out that when the council was first created in 1965 with an original appropriation of $50,000, he opposed it then saying, the $50,000 would grow to $10 million in 10 years.

"This turned out to be too conservative, because 10 years later this so-called art program is costing taxpayers $15.5 million this year and next year's plans call for more than doubling this to over $34 million," Mason said.

Mason pointed out that the state budget this year proposed to double the present council to force the overburdened to over $30 million; another plan would increase this to over $34 million. He said, "The state of California spends approximately $1 million for their arts program, and other states find that they can get along museums, historical landmarks, and important activity. Thus, New York will be spending over 34 times as much as all the rest of the states put together. If all this programs, and modern junk art."

"This is another one of the numerous needless, luxury, glamor programs born of the Rockefeller administration," the arts should be a voluntary, private enterprise — if people want to spend their own money to buy or promote this stuff, we can't object, but to force State's senior citizen's it on the public, against their will, to make the taxpayers pay over $1 million, and such vitally for it without their consent or approval is an outrage and it ought to be halted. We simply can't afford it," he said.

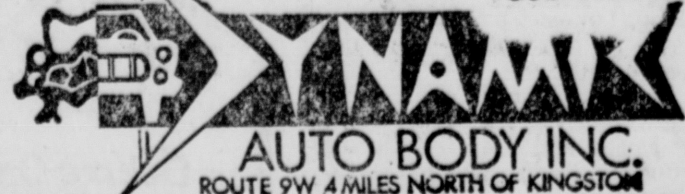

"New York State citizens are the most heavily taxed in the entire country. This Council on pitifully inadequate pensions," the Arts is strictly a non-he continued.

'Sunshine Lady' Joins Summer Program

Extra Rays for Hidden Valley

WHITEPORT In making the announcement, activities are open to Hidden Valley guests, campers and the public.

A little extra "sunshine" has been added to the summer recreation program at Hidden Valley, in the person of Dottie Sunshine, whose background includes that of being one of the few practicing female clowns in America.

Mrs. Mickey Duncan, director, announced that the "Sunshine Lady" would direct a full program for adults, teens and children, with weekend activities beginning May 18 and daily activities beginning June 22, and continuing through Sept. 2. All

Miss Sunshine, a native of New York City, developed her clown act in conjunction with her work with the Free Theater for Institutional and Needy Children, which she founded in 1960. She has performed in hospitals and orphanages throughout the country and also has traveled extensively as a clown for the Emmet Kelly Junior Circus. She was featured in a billboard for the Canada Dry Company.

As activities director for Hidden Valley, Miss Sunshine will preside over singalongs, dramatics, physical fitness and dance classes to be held both outdoors and inside the Hidden Valley Clubhouse. A special feature will be the complete handling of children's parties, both planning and entertainment.

Mrs. Duncan also announced another innovation for Hidden Valley this summer: horseback riding, beginning May 18. A riding ring has been completed, and a trail guide will be on hand to supervise riding for both adults and children.

Further information about the summer program may be obtained by calling Hidden Valley.

Local Realtor Officials at Seminar

KINGSTON Kenneth E. Hyatt, executive officer and Patricia Schaffer, secretary of the Ulster County Board of Realtors, have returned from the 31st annual seminar of Boards of Realtors Administration, conducted by the Executive Officers Committee of the National Association of Realtors.

The seminar was held April 28 - May 2 at the Ambassador Hotels in Chicago, Ill.

Participants included executive officers of state Realtor Associations and local Boards of Realtors and their staff assistants — 352 participants, from every state in the nation and Hawaii made the 1974 seminar the largest attended in the seven years it has been conducted.

Dean Norman Chappell of Fort Lauderdale, Fla., noted that "the 1974 Seminar attained the highest degree of professionalism to date. In addition to completely revamping the undergraduate (first year) program in 1973, this was the first time the seminar offered an elective program for graduate students. Ten electives were featured in areas of greatest concern to Realtors and executive officers. By repeating the electives on two consecutive days, all graduate students had the opportunity to participate in as many as their schedule allowed." Dean Chappell believes the seminar provides the best opportunity for new executive officers to acquire basic information, the more experienced to obtain advanced training and for all to keep abreast of the rapidly changing times.

Offering students the latest information on national association programs and objectives were H. Jackson Pontius, executive vice president; William R. Magel, administrative vice president; William D. North, general counsel and Chester C. Sudbrook Jr., chairman, real estate political action committee.

A variety of both general and specialized sessions were conducted by David L. Schmidt and Fred Pryor, partners in the consulting firm of Schmidt, Pryor and Co., Shawnee Mission, Kansas, and a number of realtors and executive officers from across the nation.

Woolworth Lists Subsidiary Sales

NEW YORK — The F. W. Woolworth Co. has for the first time since their acquisitions announced annual sales of its two subsidiaries, the Kinney Shoe Corporation and Richman Brothers' Company.

Kinney sales for the fiscal year ended Jan. 31, 1974 totaled $358,670,000. Richman Brothers' sales for the same period totaled $123,139,000.

As reported in March, Woolworth's total consolidated sales in 1973 amounted to $3,722,107,000.

Kinney, whose corporate headquarters are in New York City, currently operates 1,230 retail units in the U.S., 210 in Canada, and, through its subsidiary Williams Shoes, 78 in Australia. In addition the company operates ten factories in the U.S. and four in Canada.

Richman Brothers, Woolworth's Cleveland-based manufacturer and retailer of men's and boys' apparel, in addition to its manufacturing facilities currently operates 176 Richman stores, 53 Anderson Little stores and 37 Stein's stores in 36 states and the District of Columbia.

James B. Stuart is president of Kinney Shoe Corporation and Donald J. Gerstenberger is president of Richman Brothers' Company. Both are members of the F. W. Woolworth Co. board of directors.

Woolworth operates two stores in the Kingston area, one at 311 Wall Street and the other in the Ulster Shopping Plaza.

Canine Clinic

KINGSTON
If you dig your dog, and the feeling is mutual, maybe you owe it to him to take advantage of this Saturday's tattoo and registration clinic in Kingston.

Stop Theft of Pets (STOP), a recently organized Ulster County group with the specific intent of stamping out pet theft, will hold its clinic for dogs and cats at the Municipal Auditorium, 467 Broadway, Kingston from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m.

The clinic will be held in association with the National Dog Registry, based in Carmel, N.Y., which has an eight year history of recovering lost pets.

The procedure: your pet is tattooed on the inside of its right thigh with your Social Security number. The process is reportedly painless and takes only three or four minutes, and is also permanent.

Registration is "optional, but vital," according to STOP president Tony Myer. If your pet is lost or strays after registration, he can then be traced directly to you. Police, humane societies, animal shelters, and the American Kennel Club will notify the National Dog Registry on tattooed animals.

The fee for each tattoo is $5; the registration fee of $15 puts the pet on file for your lifetime, with one registration covering all pets you have.

Myer said that two dogs in Ulster County that vanished "under suspicious circumstances" in recent weeks were found many miles from their homes, stripped of their collars and tags. They were returned only because they were tattooed.

Linda Masterson of Woodstock said that, because of recent federal legislation, no lab or "puppy mill" will touch a tattooed animal, as the penalties are severe.

Environmental Conservation Advisory Council.

Mrs. Tennant has produced and presented her own radio news program, News of the Town of Olive, on radio station, WGHQ, Kingston.

Arrangements are being made for the formal presentation of the state citation at the Thursday session of the Ulster County Legislature.

Senior Award for Ulster Woman

ALBANY County Senior Citizens Alliance since 1969, Mrs. Tennant served as vice president from 1971-1972 and president from 1972 to the present. She is an officer and member of the Olive Senior Citizens and served as president of her local group from 1969-1971. As chairman of the Alliance Executive Committee, she defined and composed an educational-recreational program for alliance members.

The special awards to senior citizens throughout the state are being made at this time in conjunction with Senior Citizen Month activities during May. Mrs. Tennant was nominated as the most prominent and active senior citizen in Ulster County by County Legislature Chairman Peter J. Savago (R-Dist. 8).

A member of the Ulster subjects vital and helpful to the senior citizen. She has also been publicity chairman for the Town of Olive Sesquicentennial Committee, the Tongore Garden Club, the Friends of the Olive Free Library and the AFS International Scholarships, Ontario Chapter. Mrs. Tennant served as newsletter editor for the American Association of University Women, Kingston Chapter; finance chairman and group leader, League of Women Voters, Woodstock; a member of the Citizen Advisory Council, of Ulster County. Her interest in journalism has given her the incentive to prepare and distribute public information on environmental conservation. Mrs. Tennant has produced and presented her own radio news program, News of the Town of Olive, on radio station, WGHQ, Kingston. Arrangements are being made for the formal presentation of the state citation at the Thursday session of the Ulster County Legislature.

POUGHKEEPSIE

The national branch office of the Girl Scouts of the United States in Boston, Mass., has announced selection of Jeanne Gaffney Beyer of Poughkeepsie as the U.S. participant in the World Juliette Low Seminar at Olive House, London, England, on Aug. 18-31.

Mrs. Beyer, a former Kingston resident, will represent 3½ million American Girl Scouts at the seminar, which will help determine the goals and direction for international Girl Scouting for the next three years.

Mrs. Beyer has represented the United States at several international conferences, including the British International Environment Camp, in the International Student Movement for the United Nations Conference of Racism and Prejudice in Geneva, Switzerland, and the European Conference on Communism in Budapest, Hungary.

Mrs. Beyer, a graduate of the College of St. Rose, Albany, expects to complete graduate studies this summer at the State University College at New Paltz.

Troop 3 1st To Receive Unit Award

NEW YORK
Troop 3 of St. Joseph's Church, Kingston, received the Pope Paul VI Unit Recognition, the first troop in the Rip Van Winkle Council to be so honored, during the annual Scout Emblem service at St. Patrick's Cathedral in New York City on April 21.

This year, the Rip Van Winkle Council had both Scouts and Scouters represented in each award group. The Scouts were recognized for their effort in achieving a greater knowledge of their faith by completing the requirements for the particular award and the Scouters for their work with scouts of the Catholic faith.

Receiving the Ad Altare award were:

Russell Borghers, Kevin Ferrigan, Troop 8. Michael Harkins, Matt LaWare, Frank Spadafora, Michael Yerry, Steven Newkirk, Troop 14. Peter Antowiak, Charles Maltese Jr., Troop 66. Brian McCordie, Christopher Meyers, Clifford Meyers, Brian Rolfe, John Schoonmaker, Robert Simek, Steven Hakim, Troop 103. Thomas Bover, Scott Corcoran, James Darrow, Timothy Molloy, Gregory Grayson, Michael Hoffay, Timothy Murphy, Sean O'Grady, Troop 166.

Receiving the Pope Pius XII award were: Richard Kocsis, Troop 3. John Masterson, Troop 103. Mike Kennedy, Troop 66. Edward Molloy and Michael Mauro, Troop 166.

Awards to Scouters included: Bronze Pelican, Troop 103. Richard P. Ruth Jr., Troop 166. Charles Ring and Edward Molloy, St. George, Troop 3. John Bentley and Maurice F. Corrigan, The St. George Award also was presented to the Rev. James LeBar, scout chaplain for Rip Van Winkle Council.

Ceremonies at St. Patrick's Cathedral opened with the Blessing of Colors by His Eminence Terence Cardinal Cooke followed by welcoming remarks by the Rev. Msgr. James F. Rigney, administrator of St. Patrick's Cathedral. The scripture service opened with an introduction by the Rev. Kenneth F. O'Connell, Archdiocesan Scout chaplain. The Rev. Thomas E. McNamara, Bronx Council Scout chaplain, preached the homily after which Cardinal Cooke blessed the emblems.

Candidates for the various awards were presented by Father LeBar and Father O'Connell.

The service concluded with a prayer for youth by Cardinal Cooke followed by Exposition of the Blessed Sacrament.

CARNEGIE PREVIEW — A Dale Carnegie preview meeting held recently at the Ramada Inn was attended by many area residents with Stanley L. Brown, instructor for the Mid-Hudson and Westchester County regions, conducting the meeting. The course is being sponsored for the sixth time by The Daily Freeman as a public service to the community. A highlight of the meeting was a memory demonstration during which Edna Atkins of Lake Katrine, chosen at random from among those attending, was able to remember a list of 22 completely un-related objects in less than four minutes, using the Carnegie memory techniques. The course began earlier this week. (Freeman photo by Kruh)

Military Retirees Seek Members

SARANAC LAKE, "a loud, clear voice in matters affecting their future and economic well being." AMRA, Inc. (American Military Retirees Association) was originally organized 17 months ago. AMRA was originally in Saranac Lake, now has 28,743 members organized to serve the military members, and is seeking to reach the rest of the state's military retirees to give them its initial success that it should expand to a statewide or even nationwide organization. Membership in AMRA is based solely on a citizen's having retired for length of service from any branch of the military forces of the United States without regard for rank. AMRA estimates that the 28,743 members it now has contribute over $110 million of annual retirement income to the state's economy. So far AMRA has spearheaded legislation in New York State to amend the tax law in relation to exemption from personal income tax of pensions paid to retired military. The organization is also on record in support of the payment of bonuses to both Korean and Vietnam veterans. Those interested in the new organization may contact AMRA President Douglas R. Drum, P.O. Box 973, Saranac Lake, New York 12983.

Traffic, Revenues Down For Rhinecliff Bridge

KINGSTON The Kingston Rhinecliff Bridge decreased in both traffic and revenues during April, as compared with April of a year ago, according to recently released state figures.

The only one of five Hudson River bridges to show an increase was the Mid-Hudson Bridge, and that bridge, while increasing slightly in traffic declined slightly in revenues.

The Kingston - Rhinecliff Bridge served 206,392 vehicles, as opposed to 211,224 vehicles in April 1973, and collected $886.50 less in revenues, $53,326.50 as opposed to $54,213. The bridges as a whole carried 1,783,292 vehicles this past April, collecting revenues of $537,397.20. In April 1973 they carried 1,888,236 vehicles and collected $561,926.05.

Scholarship For UCCC

STONE RIDGE scholarship to the college to show Donald P. Love, president of the Love Oil Corp., in a letter to Professor Walter Hopkins, chairman of the Division of Engineering Technologies, Love said he feels "you are doing an excellent job with your combination of schooling and on-the-job training in oil burner service work and appliance service work."

History In the Making

RED HOOK The two villages and Town of Red Hook are making history this week in trash.

Cooperating in picking up large rubbish items in the town and the villages of Red Hook and Tivoli, garbage trucks from all municipalities are doing their spring cleaning together.

It is the first cooperative endeavor of this kind by the three communities, and promises to be the first of many to come.

The joint environmental effort, sponsored by the Red Hook Town Visual Environment Committee and the Town Conservation Commission, will culminate May 11, Saturday when individuals and several civic organizations will collect roadside trash in plastic bags, to be picked up by highway departments of the town and villages.

Anything outside of normal garbage will be picked up by crew members of the highway departments, including old furniture, refrigerators (with doors off), washing machines, metal, and rubber junk.

One Ulster student in the program, Louis W. Tierney Jr., has been assigned to the Love Oil Corp. under the cooperative arrangement.

"Mr. Tierney is doing a very good job," said Love, "and is a good representative of your college and your training."

Love said he was contributing the scholarship to show his appreciation for this particular training course. The program trains individuals to do appliance repair work and maintenance and also provides training in heating and air conditioning repairs.

The program consists of the study of heating systems and household appliances. Covered are such topics as repairing major appliances such as refrigerators, freezers, air conditioners, humidifiers, dehumidifiers, ranges, ovens, dishwashers, garbage disposal units, dryers and washing machines.

Havlicek and Cowens: 28 Each

Celtics Executed Quite Well

MILWAUKEE (AP) — It was simple execution, and this time it was the Boston Celtics' turn to pull the trigger.

John Havlicek, symbol of the matchless Celtic tradition, poured in 28 points and teamed with Paul Silas to smother Milwaukee's forwards Tuesday night as Boston won down the Bucks 96-87 for a 3-2 lead in the National Basketball Association championship playoffs.

Dave Cowens also hit 28 points, 17 in the second half, while Jo-Jo White sank 18 for the Celtics, who can clinch the best-of-seven series by winning in Boston Friday. A seventh game, if needed, will be here Sunday.

"We dug back deep for this one," said the 34-year-old Havlicek, veteran of six NBA championship teams and 135 playoff games in 11 magnificent seasons with Boston.

"We are a team with a great deal of pride, but not many of the players on this team were on any of those championship teams," Havlicek said. "They always hear about them, though, and now they want to win one for themselves."

The Celtics took permanent command in a third period surge, unleashing their fast break to outscore the Bucks 22-5 and transform their lead from one to 18 points.

The Bucks' defeat destroyed the home court advantage they had earned by winning in Boston Sunday. Moreover, it shattered the widely held opinion that the Bucks, by starting 6-foot-7 reserve forward Mickey Davis at guard, finally had found the matchup combination to neutralize the Celtics' tireless pressure defense.

Davis, who had scored 15 points Sunday and forced Boston out of its trapping defense by taking the 6-3 White to the baseline, barely was a factor this time.

Boston had a five-point lead and control of the tempo when Davis was benched with 4:48 left in the first quarter. He played 29 minutes and scored seven points. His replacement, Jon McGlocklin, played 25 minutes with a painfully torn calf muscle and scored just two points.

Kareem Abdul-Jabbar fired in 37 points and Oscar Robertson 23 for the Bucks, but their teammates managed only 27 more combined. Bob Dandridge sank just four of 17 shots under pressure by Havlicek and scored only 10 points. Cornell Warner, Milwaukee's other forward, scored two.

"We didn't do a single thing differently," Celtics Coach Tom Heinsohn said. "All the adjustments by both teams were made by game three. It's now a matter of execution. There's not much a coach can do."

SALT LAKE CITY (AP) — The New York Nets have established a pattern which, if continued tonight, will bring them the first sweep of the championship tournament series in the young history of the American Basketball Association.

"We have played the first game with plenty to spare, the second one closer and the third one very close," says Coach Kevin Loughery. "The fourth has been clear cut—so far."

New York's young team, expected by many to fold under tournament pressure, has won nine straight so far in the post-season. A 103-100 overtime victory made it 3-0 over the Utah Stars.

The Nets, led by Dr. J. Julius Erving, can end it tonight in the Salt Palace. Game time is 9:30 p.m., EDT.

But the Stars are not ready to give up. "We can win it and we'll be playing hard," declared 32-year-old Zelmo Beaty, Utah's center who missed the first two games of the series. "But I have to be realistic and say it will be a heck of a comeback if we do win it all."

Loughery sees the start of a Nets' dynasty in the ABA. "We have a young team and if we can keep the nucleus, this could develop into quite a ball club." Center Billy Paulitz, the oldest player in the Nets' starting lineup, is just 25.

Bruins: 33 Seconds of Luck

BOSTON (UPI) — Thirty-three seconds of luck were all the Boston Bruins needed.

In that half-minute Tuesday night, the Bruins rocketed from loser to 3-2 winner in the opening game of their Stanley Cup finals against the Philadelphia Flyers.

"We were lucky to win it," said Phil Esposito just after the Bruins had whipped the Flyers with 22 seconds to play on a Bobby Orr screamer from 40 feet.

The luck of the Bruins began at 19:05 of the final period when Philadelphia's Bobby Clarke passed to an unattended Bill Flett at the right side of the Boston net. Flett drew the puck across the front of the goal leaving himself two-thirds of the net in which to deposit the puck.

Flett Couldn't Handle It

But Flett couldn't handle the puck and when teammate Bill Barber and a Boston contingent of Orr, goalie Gilles Gilbert and Ken Hodge converged on the disc, it slid just past the far post.

Boston recovered quickly and brought the puck up into where luck or a dirty play, depending on whom you believe) struck again.

Boston's Wayne Cashman and Andre Dupont dug in the right corner and both went down. The puck slid along the backboard where Hodge picked it up and centered a sharp pass to Orr, who rifled a shot past Bernie Parent's stick side.

"I'd like to tell you I aimed it," said Orr, "but I didn't. I just shot it."

"Dupont's skate got caught in the stirrup of my sock" on the winning goal. "I couldn't get up or do anything," said Cashman.

Claims Winger Grabbed Him

Dupont, however, thought Cashman already had done enough, claiming the Boston winger had grabbed him. "The referee should have called a penalty," he said. "The puck was loose and he was holding me."

No penalty was called, though, and Boston had its victory despite playing good hockey for only the first 20 minutes. The Bruins, coming

Carlson Paces OHS Golfers

WOODSTOCK — Ontario golfers took to the Woodstock Country Club course like ducks to water Tuesday, decimating visiting Fallsburgh by ten strokes, 160-170.

The win gives Ontario a 5-0 overall mark on the season and a 2-0 record in the UCAAL. Rondout Valley will be the team's next test today.

John Carlson of Ontario shared medalist honors with Arnold Seletsky of Fallsburgh with a 38. Following for the winners were Mike Powers 40, Jeff Buon 41, and Bill Kennedy 41; and for the losers, Rob Feldman 42, Bill Elliott 45, and Chris Nasco 45.

Saugerties Winner; KHS Loser in Track

SAUGERTIES — Ulster County had a big win and a big loser in DCSL track Tuesday — Saugerties played the former part, and Kingston the latter.

Saugerties downed visiting Lady of Lourdes, Poughkeepsie 93-48; and Kingston fell victim of Roy C. Ketcham, Wappingers 96-45, at the Dutchess school. The Sawyers are now 4-2 on the season, Kingston 2-4.

Tom Abate amassed 10 points for Saugerties with wins in the 330 intermediate hurdles and high jump, followed closely by teammate Paul Turek, who won the 440 and tied for first in the 100-yard dash.

And Sawyer track coach Bud Smith expressed pleasure at the fact that the sophomore two-miler broke the 11-minute mark for his first time, winning that event in 10:55.4. Saugerties managed to capture 14 of a possible 17 first places. The team is now 4-2.

Kingston, now 2-4 on the season, won four first places and was fortunate in the 880 relay that Ketcham dropped the baton, according to a report from Dean Short.

Big man for the Maroon was Norb Adamietz, who took the shotput with a toss of 43 feet six inches and the discus with a mediocre hurl of 116 feet six inches.

Jeff Heath was Ketcham's only double winner, with top marks in the high and intermediate hurdles. A crisp 10.7 dash of 100 yards was recorded by Mike Willis.

KHS Golfers Nip Roosevelt

STATTSBURG — They had to wait until the last golfers had finished the course to determine Kingston's 159-160 victory against DCSL opponent Roosevelt High Tuesday at the Dinsmoor Golf Club.

Kingston climbs to a 3-1 league mark with the win, and maintains a 4-1 overall record. Roosevelt is 2-2 in DCSL competition.

Rich Sippel carded a 37 for the winners, and was matched by Roosevelt's Mark Bendyk.

And for Kingston, Carl Murray followed with a 39, Randy Speisman with 41, and Jeff Werbalowski with 42.

Casciario, Romeo Lead State Pins

SYRACUSE
Four New York State Junior bowlers qualified for the National Regional Finals of the National Bowling Council All-America Youth Bowling Championships in Dallas, Texas in early July, in eliminations conducted here last weekend.

Dan Daddio of Kingston, who led the Region 3 eliminations, placed fourth in the Boys scratch division, where he qualified with 1115 in six games and 170 in one rolloff game.

The four qualifiers for the National Regionals were Eric Maudrell, Buffalo and Renee Savannah in the scratch division and Bruce Wagner, Lyons, and Allyn Abrahams, Buffalo, in the handicap divisions.

Four other New York State crowns went to Bob Casciario of Highland: Robin Romeo of Mamaroneck, who led the Region 3 qualifiers; Paul Samasuck of Auburn and Loretta Raimondi of West Hempstead, but these young legklers will have to wait until future seasons to roll in the scholarship section of the event sponsored by the New York State Bowling Council.

Casciario rose from fifth to first in the Boys 16-18 year-old group and won with a 195-170 victory over Paul Katurowski of Cheektowaga. In the girls division (161-18), Miss Romeo posted three straight decisions, closing with a 183-135 triumph over Robin Miller of Elmira.

SAUGERTIES
A non-league golf match at the Sawyerkill Country Club found visiting John Coleman winning a 177-180 competition against Saugerties, High Tuesday.

A.J. Maneen came through with a 41, two strokes lower than his nearest competitor, the winners. He was aided by John Baxter's 43, Steve Dublin's 45, and Jeff Kelley's 48.

For Saugerties, Dave Heineck and Warren Yetter each had a 43, Chris Lyle a 45, and Brian Holley finished with 49.

Dempsey to WFL
PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — The Philadelphia Bell of the World Football League has announced the signing of Wally Dempsey, a former linebacker in the Canadian Football League.

The club said Tuesday Dempsey, a graduate of Washington State who was dropped by the New York Jets last season, will play this season and will report to an indoctrination camp for approximately 75 signed players this weekend in Cherry Hill, N.J.

Oregon Taxpayer
PORTLAND, Ore. (UPI) — The newest member of the Portland Trail Blazers is going to become an Oregon taxpayer.

It was learned Tuesday that before UCLA All-America Bill Walton left Portland Sunday after signing a contract with the NBA team he had placed a deposit on some property. A Trail Blazers' official did not say where it was located, but said: "It's a place bigger than a lot, but smaller than a ranch."

NEW LL FIELD: Rondout Valley Little League dedicated its new baseball diamond to Joe Schrowang of Hurley Sand and Gravel. Present at ceremonies at the A. J. Snyder complex in Rosendale were standing (L-R) Schrowang and Glenn DeBrosky; kneeling, Charles Gilliland and Dick Davenport.

The Rosendale complex now has two fields to handle approximately 350 Little Leaguers from the townships of Rosendale and Marbletown.

It is estimated that approximately $30,000 worth of effort went into making this new diamond a reality. Most of the cost involved a tremendous amount of fill and the use of several pieces of very large equipment owned and operated by Schrowang.

In addition to the great effort by Schrowang, several other men made major contributions of equipment and labor, among them Carlton Beach of Beach Construction, High Falls; Joe Bartle, manager of Accord Agway; Bob Davenport, Davenport Implement, High Falls; Ray Van Kleeck and Charles Goss of William Van Kleeck and Sons, New Paltz; Nate Haines, High Falls; Bill Buchanan, Eddyville; Tom Hrisicak of Hrisicak Trucking, Kingston; and Bill and Dick Davenport of Walter Davenport Sons.

The miracle man who started and worked with the project almost daily for more than a year was league president Charles Gilliland. In addition to getting the field completed, he also supervised and worked on the new concession stand, as well as heading and directing the entire Little League program for the Rondout Valley.

Others who worked with Gilliland and Schrowang were co-chairmen Glenn DeBrosky, Dick Davenport and Chief Engineer, Frank Kelpis. A number of Little League fathers and friends also assisted.

Local Pastor Prize Winner

KINGSTON and most spectacular course in the world.

A local minister, Jim H. Jenkin, pastor of Bethel Assembly of God on Esopus Avenue, is a white water racing buff good enough to capture the third place trophy in the Giant Slalom race in the C-1 class in the annual Hudson River White Water Derby at North Creek over the weekend.

C-1 class is open cruising canoe for single man. Rev. Jenkin was clocked in a computed time of 34:47. The winner of the event was John Tompkins of Troy in 18:48. Runnerup was Daniel Tracy of Croton Falls with a time of 30:07.

The Giant slalom was a one-mile course of white water (rapids) which consisted of maneuvering a canoe through a total of 20 different gates located in various areas of the river throughout a one-mile course.

More than 30,000 spectators saw the derby which was limited to 400 entries for the first time. Several categories were discontinued this year, principally women's and mature classes. The derby is run on what is considered the fastest

The derby, originated and still sponsored by the Johnsbury Fish and Game Club, Inc. features a Novice and Giant Slalom race on the first day of the meet, with the seven and one half mile "downriver" race on the second. Each event has at least 10 different classes.

The Rev. Jenkin also placed second in the C-1 class of an eight-mile "downriver" race on April 20 on a course between Pleasant Valley and Poughkeepsie on the Wappingers Creek.

Also in that race were two teams in the Youth Boys division, competing in behalf of the youth group of Bethel Assembly of God. Teammates David Lettieri and Terry Scar-sella, also of Woodstock, received third place medallions in a field of 54 entrants in the C-2 (cruising canoe-two men) youth boys. The Wappingers Creek derby had a total of more than 350 entrants.

UCCC Netmen Take Finale

STONE RIDGE singles: Bob Marz over Bob Stewart 6-3, 6-3; Maurice Willis over Sue Lambo 7-5, 3-6, 6-4; season in fine shape Tuesday and Bob Temple taking Sharon Kaneten 6-3, 7-6. Final singles was won by Dutchess' Karen Hudson rival Dutchess.

The win puts Ulster at 3-1 in the conference and even overall with a 3-3 record, said coach Pete Zeh.

The Senators put together three singles victories and one in doubles to take the match.

Dutchess' top an Ernie Gorman and downed Jerry Prendergast 6-3, 6-4, and then Ulster took the next three Wiercinski against Carl Hamilton, 6-0, 4-6, 6-3.

In doubles, Dutchess paired Gorman and Wiercinski against Prendergast and Marz for a 6-4, 6-7, 6-4 victory. But the final and deciding match, with Willis and Temple playing Stewart and Lambo, had Ulster merging with the win 6-2, 3-6, 6-4.

KHS Softies in 22-8 Romp

KINGSTON
Kingston High's girls softball varsity suddenly discovered its collective batting eye and it was bad news for Rondout Valley High, a 22-8 drubbing in a non-league game.

June Miller knocked in five Kingston runs with a homer and three singles. Sandy Mancuso also had five RBIs on two homers. Joan Driggs, Debbie Helzer and Ann Gaffney each had two hits, with Miss Gaffney slamming Kingston's fourth homer of the game.

While the Maroons collected 21 hits, Lynn Sorenson limited Rondout to five singles.

OCS Softball Big Scoring

BOICEVILLE
One thing about the Onteora High School girls softball team. It can score runs, like 77 in four games in a 3-1 get-away for Coach Joan Viskocil's squad.

Onteora opened its 1974 season with a 38-3 rout of Margaretville in a non-UCAL contest, bowed to Pine Bush, 23-6, beat New Paltz 10-4 and bombed Wallkill 23-12 for a 2-1 record.

Kim Booth slammed a homer and triple against Wallkill. Vegliando homered for the losers. Carol Maroney and Peggy Fitzsimmons had doubles for Onteora. Kathy Despres and Lynn Stoothoff tripled against New Paltz and Cindy Baldus added a double.

Five of the OCS players are veterans from 1973—Jeanne May, Mollie Klinger, Debbie Cease, Carol Maroney and Cindy Baldus. The newcomers include Elena Fagerstrom, Ellen Sheehan, Peggy Fitzsimmons, Kim Booth, Kathy Despres, Pam Wenner, Lynn Stoothoff and Barb Sheehan.

Hockey Clinics at Granit

ACCORD
Granit Hotel has announced a series of weekly ice hockey clinics for players throughout Ulster County, starting Thursday, May 9, and every Thursday thereafter at 6 p.m.

Lee Timmer, manager of the ice rink, said the clinics will be conducted by Felix Swirski, a member of the Granit staff, who has had several years experience as a hockey player and coach.

The clinics are open to boys in the 4 to 11-year age bracket. Power skating and hockey fundamentals will be taught. Boys planning to participate are requested to have the following safety equipment: hockey skates, helmet, mouth guard, athletic supporter with cup and their own sticks.

Further information on the clinics may be obtained by contacting Swirski at the Granit.

Virgil Dartball Champion

SAUGERTIES
Virgil Finger compiled 84 total bases on 100 darts to capture first place in the 7th annual SAA Dartball Tournament. Runnerup in the 36-player field was John Luchezis with 73 total bases.

Woody Sperl battled Ed Gardner Jr. through two overtime sessions before emerging as the home run king.

The event was conducted on a man-to-man, round robin format of 5 rounds of 20 darts per player. Points were awarded as follows: homers 4, triples 3, doubles 2, singles and walks, one each. The tournament was conducted for the seventh straight year by SAA dartball officials—Mouse Wolven, president, Toby Tobiasen, secretary-treasurer and Charles Meiswinkel, coordinator.

No Centerfold
For King's Mag

SAN MATEO, Calif. (AP) — "No centerfolds, thank you," promises Rosalie Wright, editor of an ambitious new magazine called WomenSports.

The first issue of the publication, part of Billie Jean King's growing business empire, will be on newsstands this month. An all-female editorial staff is aiming its efforts mostly at women who want to read about women.

"Someone sent me an article about mountain climbing, telling how it was a great way to meet guys. I sent it right back and told them to send it to 'Cosmopolitan.' It wasn't for us," Ms. Wright said.

The magazine backed by Ms. King—champion of women's rights as well as tennis—is sure to take some swings at the sport world's male chauvinist pigs.

But almost half the articles in the first issue are by males.

A man will be the author each month of a guest column called "In a Pig's Eye." The editor Wright explained: "The column will be for humor—not sexist humor, just humor."

Paterson Nine Tops New Paltz State, 6-2

NEW PALTZ spread seven Paltz hits over the nine, inning span, giving up one run in the second and the other in the seventh.

A hard throwing pitcher and a hard hitting third baseman did most of the damage in SUNY at New Paltz' baseball loss to Paterson (N.J.) State Tuesday, 6-2.

The pitcher, Mike Balady, for New Paltz, bowing out in the fifth inning after being tagged for four runs. Relief was provided by Dennis Ponte.

The winning runs came in the top of the fifth, with Paterson ahead 2-1 in a tight duel. With one out, leadoff hitter Kondell was followed by a walk, home Thursday and Friday. Season record is just below the 500 mark at 14-16.

The score:

PATERSON (16) PALTZ STATE (2)

Paterson: 1B—Giberti 3, 2B—Giberti 3, 3B—Giberti 3, 4B—Giberti 3, 5B—Giberti 3, 6B—Giberti 3, 7B—Giberti 3, 8B—Giberti 3, 9B—Giberti 3.

Rondout and Onteora Track Winners

KINGSTON 21 1/2" and the triple jump with 41'1".

Rondout Valley ran out a 79-53 UCAL track victory at Coleman High Tuesday, and Onteora buried Ellenville 97-44.

Rondout was led in points by Ralph Hiller, shotput and discus man, with two wins. And the visitors swept all three relays, with the Lyke brothers William and Fred instrumental in the mile and two-mile versions.

Coleman was not without its heroes. Ron Weber won the triple jump and tied for first on the long jump at 18'7" with teammate Jim Barth.

Kevin Post came home first in the mile and two-mile runs with excellent times respectively of 4:48 and 9:40.

And Coleman's Robert Ramirez blazed to a 10.2 second 100 yard dash, and also won the 220 in 24.9.

In the other UCAL meet, Ellenville's Norm Zelensky had an outstanding jumping day, winning the long jump at High jump—Tom King (R), Lenard (R), Moore (C), Height—3'7". Long jump—Ron Weber (C), King (R), Jim Barth (C), tie, Distance—18'7".

Triple jump—Ron Weber (C), Almsteil (R), Rappaport (R), Distance—38'2". Pole vault—Forfeit to Rondout. Two-mile relay—Rondout (W, Lyke, F. Lyke, McBride, Addis), Time—9:35.

Mikita to Coach

CHICAGO (UPI) — Stan Mikita of the Chicago Black Hawks announced Monday he will coach a special school June 17-22 for members of the American Hearing-impaired Hockey Association.

The school will be limited to 40 players, with one class in the age group 12-15 and another class for 16-year-olds and over.

The school will be held in the suburban Randhurst Ice Arena without charge to the participants, except for furnishing their own board and room.

Player of Week

KANSAS CITY (UPI) — Catcher Fran Healy of the Kansas City Royals has been named the American League's player of the week, it was announced Tuesday.

Healy's batting average was .361 last week, with eight hits in 21 at-bats. His hits included two without charge to the par-doubles, a triple and two home runs, accounting for six runs batted in.

Miller Building Upstate Plant

FULTON, N.Y. (AP)—Weeks of speculation ended Monday when the Miller Brewing Co. officially announced it would build a $70 million brewery in the nearby Town of Volney.

The joint announcement was made by John A. Murphy, president and chief executive officer of the Milwaukee, Wis., brewing firm, and Gov. Malcolm Wilson's office.

Last January, Miller announced plans to construct a major Eastern brewery within 200 miles of New York City. As many as six New York State sites reportedly had been under consideration, including Auburn, Volney and several sites in Onondaga County.

"Of all the sites we looked at, Volney had the most to offer us," Murphy said. "We needed a large tract of land near good transportation facilities, and most importantly, we were concerned with the quality and purity of our water supply."

Murphy said the brewery would require seven million gallons of water a day at peak production. The facility's supply will come from the Oswego River, which runs adjacent to the plant site.

Murphy said the brewery would create about 750 jobs in the Fulton area, which now has an unemployment rate of 7.2 per cent.

Construction of the two-million barrel-a-year plant began immediately after the announcement with groundbreaking ceremonies at the site, a 415-acre farm adjacent to Fulton, about 25 miles northwest of Syracuse.

In addition to the brewery, Murphy said the firm planned to build a glass bottle plant and an aluminum can manufacturing plant on the site.

He said the new brewery was part of a $200 million expansion and modernization program planned by Miller.

"The need for more capacity became especially evident in 1973 when increased consumer demand for Miller's products forced our production beyond the rated capacity of our existing facilities," Murphy said.

Miller's barrel output was up 29 per cent in 1973 over 1972. Production increased from 5.3 million barrels in 1972 to 6.9 million barrels last year, moving Miller from seventh to fifth in the U.S. brewing industry, he said.

The new brewery's ultimate capacity will equal Miller's largest plant at Milwaukee, which has a capacity of six million barrels a year. Miller's other two plants, at Fort Worth, Tex., and Azusa, Calif., can produce two million and 1.2 million barrels a year, respectively.

Miller is the second major brewing company to build in the Syracuse area. Last August, the Joseph P. Schlitz Brewing Co. announced it would build a 5.8 million barrel-a-year brewery near Baldwinsville in Onondaga County.

Oil Companies Reap Big Returns

NEW YORK (AP) — The oil companies haven't always been the great money makers they are today, but they've never been paupers either.

In 1972, a year most analysts agree was a poor one for the industry, nine oil companies ranked among the 25 most profitable industrial corporations in the land, based on the total number of dollars earned.

Even by the yardstick most commonly used, return on stockholders' investment, the oil companies show only a slight depression from industry as a whole, when the high 1973 profits are included.

In recent months, as the companies' profits have soared over levels set the previous year, oil executives have urged that their earnings be placed in perspective.

"The profits are being compared to a poor quarter a year ago," says the typical oil executive today, who finds his firm coming under increased criticism from the public and Congress. "Our return on investment is still inadequate for the exploration and development of energy the nation so desperately needs."

Security analysts generally agree that the oil industry is emerging with a bang from a period of poorer profitability several years ago. They say the performance then was caused by fuel surpluses, increased competition from the independents and a reduction in the federal depletion allowance from 27 per cent to 22 per cent in 1969.

Because 1972 was a down year for the industry as a whole, earnings gains in 1973 were somewhat deceptive, analysts say. They say that profits began to improve in the first part of 1973, so percentage figures this year should be much more meaningful.

Likewise 1972 was the industry's worst year in the past 10 in terms of return on investment. This rate, a comparison of net income to shareholders' total investment, is considered important because it indicates an industry's ability to attract money needed to expand and grow.

AP Analysis

In 1972, according to figures compiled by the Federal Trade Commission, the oil industry's return on investment fell to 8.7 per cent, compared with a 10.6 per cent rate for all industry.

Returns for the 12 largest oil companies in 1972 was 10.7 per cent, the FTC says, as against a 13.9 per cent for the autos and a 5.4 per cent return for the steel industry.

If an entire 10-year period through 1973 is examined, FTC figures show the oil companies' return on investment at a median 11.38 per cent, compared with 11.58 per cent for all manufacturing.

Analysts and economists say a major task in assessing the over-all profitability of the oil companies is knowing what measure to use. Percentage gains over previous years, return on investment, profits as a percentage of sales, earnings per share and just plain stock prices are a few of the many indicators employed.

New York's First National City Bank keeps return on sales figures for various industrial groupings — and these are much more favorable to oil.

For the last 10 years, the oil industry's profit margin — or income as a percentage of sales — has a median of 8.3 cents to the dollar, Citibank says. This compares with all industry's 5.5 cents on the dollar. "The profit margin shows how well the industry covers its costs," says Robert Lewis, Citibank's vice president who compiles the figures.

In a recent newsletter entitled "The Profit Situation," John Winger, an energy specialist for New York's Chase Manhattan Bank, utilizes yet another figure to measure profits.

Winger says that for the past five years, including 1973, earnings of 24 domestically based oil companies and four foreign ones "achieved an annual growth in earnings of 12 per cent." For the past 10 years, the average increase fell far short of the growth required to provide the capital funds needed to keep pace with expansion of petroleum demand, the specialist says.

Within the United States, the longer term growth of profits has been even less favorable, Winger says. "Although the group's earnings in 1973 were 19.1 per cent higher than five years earlier, they were only 11.3 per cent higher than five years earlier. And the average annual growth rate for the past five years has been only 2.2 per cent."

"Clearly the United States cannot possibly achieve the higher degree of petroleum self-sufficiency it so urgently needs if profits continue to grow at such slow rates," Winger says. Only if the industry maintains the 15.6 per cent rate of return attained in 1973, will it be able to generate the required capital funds, he says.

Fire Truck for Esopus ... 'Dream Comes True'

By MATT SPIRENG

TOWN OF ESOPUS
Wanted: a $30,000 fire truck; will pay $2,100.

Impossible, you say—particularly in these days of snowballing inflation.

But the seemingly impossible task has become a reality through the efforts of members of the Esopus Fire Department. The Department now has in service a fire truck which cost $2,100, and which manufacturers have estimated would cost about $30,000 if bought brand new, according to Esopus Fire Chief Ronald Bruck.

Of course, the nearly $28,000 saving to the fire district was not quite as simple as it sounds at first. It took a lot of hard work by members of the department—and a lot of patience by their wives.

"There was a lot of skepticism about us being able to do it," Bruck said in prefacing his explanation of how the department transformed a surplus Army cargo truck into a full-fledged fire truck that has already proven its worth to the department.

The project was started over a year ago under the chairmanship of Robert Smith, a member of the Fire Department, when Esopus volunteer firemen went to Delaware to pick up the surplus truck that hadn't been driven in seven years.

A little persistence and mechanical know-how got the truck to Esopus where work on it was begun. Some 10,380 man-hours and ten months later the transformation from surplus cargo truck to fire truck was completed.

The special talents of plumbers, electricians, welders, painters and other men in the department were called upon to affect the change. About 35 to 40 men pitched in to work the long hours required to alter the truck. "It was a full department effort," Bruck said.

"We owe a lot of thanks to the wives, too, whose husbands worked nights—sometimes until two or three in the morning—and weekends on the truck," Bruck added.

For the massive effort by men in the Esopus Fire Department the reward is a virtually new truck. The "new" truck carries 650 gallons of water, has two pre-connected 1½ inch hose beds, two pre-connected booster lines, and carries 1,000 feet of 2½-inch hose, 40 feet of suction hose, a portable pump, a 30-foot ladder and brush fire equipment. It is capable of pumping 350 gallons per minute onto a fire.

But the major advantage with the transformed truck is that it can go places many other fire trucks can't.

"It is our off the road truck for fighting brush fires and for breaking through heavy snow drifts," Bruck said of the six-wheel drive machine. "It is the truck we commit to cross fields to pump from a pond or stream."

It can also go 55 miles per hour when necessary, and can be used as a back up pumper for the other four trucks in the Esopus Fire Department.

"It's proven its worth already," Bruck said of the truck which was put in service earlier this year. It replaced a 1942 truck that could no longer be kept in service.

For his efforts in chairing the committee that built the truck, Smith has been awarded the department's Outstanding Fireman Award.

And the residents of the district have been rewarded with a truck worth 15 times what they paid for it.

Job Development Loan Aids Kingston Project

KINGSTON

A $51,000 loan from the New York Job Development Authority to help finance a $170,000 industrial development project in Kingston was announced today by Governor Malcolm Wilson.

The loan, processed through the Kingston Area Industrial Development Corporation, an arm of the Chamber of Commerce of Ulster County, will help the Wonderly Company, Inc. purchase a 15,000 square foot building on Cornell Street.

The new building will replace Wonderly's 7,500 square foot facility at 314 Wall Street which is currently being used.

The company, which manufactures custom draperies and related items for hotels and motels, is the outgrowth of a small Kingston department store established in 1919. The store was phased out in 1966 and the entire premises used in the manufacture of draperies.

A new company, Wunda Spread, Inc., organized in 1973 to take over Wonderly's bedspread business, will also occupy the new facility on Cornell Street.

The firm, which currently employs 47, expects to add between 10 and 15 new workers after a year of operation at the new location.

Additional financing for the project will come from the Rondout National Bank and the project occupant.

The New York Job Development Authority grants low-cost, long-term, second mortgage loans through local industrial development corporations to assist in the construction of new plants or acquisition, expansion or rehabilitation of existing facilities. During the 1973 session, the State Legislature widened the allowed use of Authority funds to include capital expenditures for pollution abatement.

Planners Slate Session

KINGSTON

The annual conference of the Ulster County Planning Board will be held Wednesday, May 15 at the Holiday Inn in Kingston beginning at 9 a.m.

The tenth anniversary of the formation of the Ulster County Planning Board will be observed at the event at which James Ruhl, assistant director of the Temporary Commission to Study the Catskills, will be the main speaker.

Ruhl will speak on the interim findings and recommendations of the commission.

Clifford Beal, chairman of the County Planning Board, will speak on the progress of planning in the county in the past ten years and lead a floor discussion of current problems.

It is reported that the Planning Board hopes in this way to learn how it can be of greater service to the community and determine future research programs.

The planning staff will also make a presentation of the various studies completed, staff assistance available to localities and the procedural requirements for mandatory zoning referrals.

The morning program will begin at 12:30 and the speakers will be available after lunch to answer individual questions.

According to the Planning Board, the work of the Catskill Commission is of great importance for residents of the county for the scope of the work includes all of Ulster County, not just the Catskills and its recommendations may reportedly have great impact on future land use development.

In the Adirondacks, a similar commission was created which resulted in the state's assumption of many local government's land use controls.

All county residents are welcome to attend the conference.

Community Concert Group Announces Guest Artist

The young soprano Shigemi Matsumoto, who has been hailed by critics as a major talent, will appear in Kingston for members of the Community Concert Association next season.

Her many talents, together with her beauty, have made her sought after in music circles. She is at home singing opera, oratorio, as well as in recitals. Though still in her twenties, she has already been placed in the "star" category.

Miss Matsumoto received her education in Los Angeles and earned her BA in Vocal Performance. She was elected to "Who's Who in American Colleges and Universities." A regional winner of the Metropolitan Opera auditions while only 20 years old, at the age of 21, this lovely star entered and won the San Francisco Opera National Auditions and received her first contract from a major opera company. Miss Matsumoto was also chosen as Japanese Woman of the Year for Southern California and just recently was awarded a major grant from the National Opera Institute.

Although Miss Matsumoto has only been singing since she was 19, she has in her repertoire 30 major roles, in 20 operas. She has performed leading roles with several opera companies including the San Francisco Opera Company, the Portland Opera Company, the Augusta Opera Company as well as the San Diego Opera Company. In addition to her operatic performances, Miss Matsumoto has appeared as opening guest artist with Arthur Fiedler in his San Francisco summer "Pops" concerts.

Truly gifted, Miss Matsumoto is a born musician and a natural actress. She possesses a radiant voice and charming personality. The San Francisco Chronicle wrote: "Miss Matsumoto's voice and destiny can hardly avoid growing to exciting powers."

Memberships to the concerts are available this week only. The seating capacity of the Community Theater is filled on a first come, first served basis. Last year, as well as in previous years, the seating capacity was SOLD OUT. Those interested in obtaining memberships are urged to call either Mrs. George Wert, campaign chairman, or Mrs. John McCullough, membership secretary, so that they can contact the captain workers in your vicinity. A special headquarters has also been established at the Governor Clinton Hotel. Persons may also call the concert desk directly to obtain memberships for the coming season. All concerts are presented at 8 p.m. at the Community Theater.

Donna Pisano Exchanges Vows With Joseph Bilyou

St. Joseph's Church in Kingston was the setting for the wedding of Donna Maria Pisano and Joseph William Bilyou, both of Kingston. The Rev. Thomas O'Hagan, associate pastor, officiated at the double ring ceremony, Saturday, April 27, Donald Sweeney, organist, provided wedding selection.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Matthew A. Pisano Sr. of RD 5, Box 190-A, Kingston. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. George Bilyou of 19 Jarrold Street, Kingston.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride selected a gown of ivory dutchess satin fashioned with a shaped and modified Empire bodice, high neckline and long Juliette sleeves. Peau d'ange lace accented the bodice and accented the mandarin collar which was trimmed with seed pearls. The A-line skirt featured a double border of matching lace. She wore a Juliette-designed bonnet accented with lace and seed pearls to which was shirred her cathedral-length, lace-edged mantilla. She carried a prayer book covered with red sweetheart roses and baby's breath.

Wedding Bells for Radiant Bride

Miss Catherine Burke of Phoenix, Ariz., was maid of honor. Attendants were Miss Patrice Sangaline; Miss Cathy Linnartz and Miss Kathy Tatarzewski, cousins of the bridegroom; Francis Woods Jr., and Gary Buboltz.

For her wedding party, the bride selected a rainbow color scheme of blue, maize and pale rose. The gowns of polyester organza were embellished in a printed stripe design on white backgrounds, styled with fitted Empire bodices with V-necklines and abbreviated sleeves. White Venice lace braid trimmed the necklines and encircled the flounces that bordered the hemlines. They wore wide-brimmed picture hats to match their gowns. The maid of honor carried a fireside basket of pastel-colored daisies and baby's breath. Attendants carried baskets of blue iris, yellow daffodils, pink daisies and baby's breath.

Joseph S. Klonowski Jr. of First Avenue, Kingston, was best man. Ushers were Matthew Pisano Jr., brother of the bride; John Tatarzewski, cousin of the bridegroom; Francis Woods Jr., and Gary Buboltz.

A reception was given at White Eagle Hall, Kingston.

The bride, a graduate of Coleman High School, is employed by Metropolitan Life Insurance Co., Kingston.

Her husband, an alumnus of Kingston High School, is employed at Rotron, Inc.

After a wedding trip to Lake Buena Vista, Fla. the couple will reside in Kingston.

Don't Monkey With Chimps

DEAR ABBY: I hope you won't laugh when you read this because I am sincere. I love all animals, but I am especially fascinated by chimpanzees. I go to the zoo and watch them for hours.

I would like to own a chimp as a pet, but don't know where to buy one. How much would a young chimp cost? Are they hard to care for? What do they eat? Would I need a heated cage to keep one in Ohio?

Any information you can give me on chimps would be greatly appreciated.

LOVES CHIMPS

DEAR LOVES: According to John Fletcher, head zoologist at the Como Park Zoo in St. Paul, Minn., chimps are presently in very short supply. When available for research, a young chimp costs between $800 and $1,000.

Dr. Fletcher informs me that a single chimp would not make a very good house pet, because when a chimp reaches sexual maturity he becomes frustrated, ill-tempered and unpredictable. So the word from here is, don't monkey around with chimps or you'll have nothing but problems.

DEAR ABBY: Billy and I have been married a year. I am 20 and Billy is 22. We get along fine. The problem is Billy's mother, who lives near us. Billy gave her a key to our house so she can get in in case of an emergency or so if we go out of town, she can come in and water our plants. We have never had an emergency and we don't go out of town that much.

Several times after we've gone to bed his mother has walked right into our bedroom without even knocking. She says she got "lonesome" or she had something to tell us. What she had to tell us could have waited until the next day.

I didn't expect our honeymoon to last forever but I can assure you, it has ended because all I have on my mind is worrying that his mother will come walking in on us.

Dear Abby

N. Y. News Synd., Inc.

I have told Billy to ask his mother for our housekey, but he says he doesn't want to hurt her feelings. I don't want to ask her for it because I don't want her mad at me. Can you help me?

FRAIDY CAT

DEAR CAT: Don't be afraid. You are entitled to your privacy, so if Billy refuses to ask his mother for the key, you ask her. Tell her if you leave town you'll give her the key. And if you can't do that, get a bolt and chain for your bedroom door.

DEAR ABBY: Magazine rippers is (or is it "are?") my problem. I operate a beauty salon and keep up-to-date magazines for my patrons. It takes only one or two magazine rippers to ruin the magazines for everyone else.

Not only do they tear a small piece out of one page, they rip out entire articles and consequently the whole magazine falls apart!

I have put up signs asking people to please leave the magazines whole. Or if there's something they can't live without, all they have to do is buy one at the store, or ask me to save it for them, and I will.

I'm sure many businesses have this problem. I just hope the offenders will read this — and maybe you can add something to help us out.

DISTRESSED

DEAR DISTRESSED: If you've posted signs you've done all you can do, but as one who has been the frustrated victim of magazine rippers, may I add my plea: PLEASE, either copy the recipe you want or buy another magazine (if it's still available). If it isn't ask the manager to please save it for you. (P.S. You could also clip this and post it where it will be seen. Good luck.)

DEAR ABBY: My grandson, a high school senior, and I have been going round and round on this one:

I sent his sister a college student, a birthday card by mail. He said he intended to give her her card when we met to take her out to dinner on her day.

My opinion was that he was skirting the outer edges of propriety in handing his sister a birthday card. He said it didn't make any difference and suggested I write to Dear Abby for her opinion.

GRAMP

DEAR GRAMP: I'm with your grandson. It doesn't matter if a congratulatory message is delivered by mail, the king's messenger or in person. It's being remembered that counts.

Problems? You'll feel better if you get it off your chest. For a personal reply, write to ABBY: Box No. 69700, L.A. Calif. 90069. Enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope, please.

For Abby's booklet, "How to Have a Lovely Wedding," send $1 to Abigail Van Buren, 132 Lasky Dr. Beverly Hills, Cal. 90212.

(Hear Dear Abby Mon. thru Sat. at 9:07 a.m. WKNY-1490)

GOLDEN ANNIVERSARY

— Mr. and Mrs. William Mohr of Box 29A, Cedar Street, Tillson, recently celebrated their 50th wedding anniversary. They were feted at a surprise party given by their neighbors in the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Mikalauskas of Cedar Street, Tillson. Many relatives and friends attended. Mr. and Mrs. Mohr were also guests of honor at a party given by their daughter and her husband, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Brannan of 210 North Putt Corners Road, New Paltz, at Williams Lake. The couple also has two grandchildren. They were married April 20, 1924 in the Lutheran Church of Maspeth, L.I. Mr. Mohr is a retired employee of Lautier Files Co., Inc. of New Jersey. JOIN OUR 60th ANNIVERSARY CELEBRATION

Back in 1914 . . .

. . . when a "gentleman" wore a dashing bowler hat and carried a walking stick, Herman Rafalowsky began his rise to fame as one of the area's best known clothiers. The formula was simple: Give a man a good suit, fit him properly, give him personal attention, (and maybe even tell him a joke or two!)

It's a tradition of "customer first" that's still as important today as it was 60 years ago!

Come help us celebrate! All you have to do is stop in, and register to win one of 10 wonderful prizes, now, during our MAY ANNIVERSARY CELEBRATION DAYS!

On Saturday, May 25th, join us for Anniversary Cake and Coffee, served all day long!

Open House
Port Ewen Nursery School, located at the Port Ewen Reformed Church, Salem Street, is sponsoring an open house Saturday from 10 to 11:30 a.m. Refreshments will be served.

Both morning and afternoon sessions will be offered this fall on Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays. Registration information will be available, and area residents are invited to enroll their children, ages three to five.

Those unable to attend Saturday may visit the school from 10 to 1:30 a.m. Monday, May 13. Additional information is available from Judy Celuch, Port Ewen, or Kathy Pittner, Ulster Park.

Domestic Arts Club
Domestic Arts Club 299 of New Paltz will meet Thursday at 10 a.m. at the home of Mrs. Hilda Simpson on North Putt Corner Road.

Knitting and crochet lessons will be given by Ethel Rosenzweig and Vickie Syfranski in the morning. Members attending the lessons are reminded to bring their lunch. Billie Morris will serve as hostess.

Rummage Sale
A benefit rummage sale with a Boutique Shop for discriminating bargain hunters is just what American Field Service International Scholarships has ready for its spring event Saturday at St. Gregory's Church, Route 212, Woodstock. Doors will open promptly at 10 a.m. and close about 4 p.m.

Furniture, yard goods, hardware, dishes, frames, beetle traps, and miscellaneous items promise to delight the inquisitive. Selections from the Boutique Shop should tempt those with a pre-inflation eye for values. The refreshment center will be manned by the Ontario Student Chapter, AFS. Public is invited.

Distaff Digest

CDA Meeting

The monthly meeting of the Catholic Daughters of America, Court Santa Maria No. 164, will take place Thursday at Knights of Columbus Hall, Mass will be celebrated by the Rt. Rev. Msgr. Thomas J. Mullins, chaplain, at 7:45 p.m. The business meeting will be held afterwards.

All members are urged to attend.

Covered Dish Supper

The annual covered dish supper sponsored by Lomontville Ladies Fire Auxiliary will be held Saturday at 6 p.m. at the firehouse. Auxiliary members are asked to bring their favorite covered dish or cake. They are also asked to bring a senior citizen if he does not drive.

This annual event is always anticipated by the residents of the area who enjoy gourmet dishes.

Public is invited.

Le Bal d'Or

Blitherwood, a manor house on Bard College campus, will house the Northern Dutchess Hospital's 50th Anniversary Ball of Gold, LeBal d'Or. Mrs. Louis Dillman is general chairman.

Sponsored by Friends of Northern Dutchess Hospital, the social is set for Saturday, June 8. Committees include Mrs. Alfred Januale, decorations; Mrs. Joseph Ambrose, reservations; Mrs. George Gallow, cocktails; Mrs. Kenneth Appell, dinner chairman.

Publicity chairman is Mrs. Donald McKibbin. Also participating in the arrangements are Mrs. Frederick Zipser, Mrs. Michael Mazzarella, Mrs. George Verrilli, Mrs. John Baker, Mrs. Jack Buttl, Mrs. Sander Heyman, Mrs. William Landauer, Mrs. Walter Schrieber, Mrs. John White, Mrs. Tom Frost, Gienna West.

Reservations, on a first-come, first-served basis, are not limited to those receiving formal invitations, and may be had by contacting Mrs. Ambrose of Rhinebeck. Donations are tax deductible. All proceeds will be given to the hospital.

To Meet Thursday

The Rosary-Altar Society of St. Christopher's Church in Red Hook will hold its monthly meeting Thursday in the parish hall after the 7 p.m. Mass in the church.

A Chinese Auction will take place. Members are asked to bring a wrapped gift. All women of the parish are invited.

Saugerties Jaycees

Saugerties Jaycees will hold their annual dinner meeting Wednesday, May 22, at 6:30 p.m. at King's Steak House, Route 32, Saugerties. Dinner is choice of menu and will be served at 7 p.m. The regular business meeting will be held afterwards at which time election of officers will take place. Guests are invited. Those planning to attend should contact Mrs. Robert Ricketson, Route 2, Box 552, Saugerties.

Luncheon, Fashion Show

The Auxiliary of Benedictine hospital will hold its annual Luncheon and Fashion Show Wednesday, May 15, at noon in Williams Lake Hotel, Rosendale.

Program chairman is Joan Gilpatrick; Betty Tucker, chairman of the fashion show, has announced that fashions from a Fifth Avenue designer will be shown. Judy MacIsaac will be commentator. Reservations are limited and should be made with Frances Turk of Kingston as soon as possible. Tickets will include lunch, beverage, plus a profit for the Auxiliary's $200,000 pledge to the Hospital.

Meeting Scheduled

Woman's Club of Rosendale will meet Thursday at 7 p.m. at Williams Lake Hotel in Rosendale. Hostesses will be Mrs. Walter Williams, Mrs. Peter Mathews and Mrs. Arthur O'Leary. Mrs. John Delora Jr. of Create-A-Art will demonstrate.

Welcome Wagon Club

The monthly meeting of Welcome Wagon Club is scheduled for Tuesday, May 14, at 8 p.m. at the Bonanza Office of the Heritage Savings Bank, Route 9W, across from Caldors. The program will be presented by the BeeVer House in Saugerties. Election of officers is also on the agenda. Hostesses will be Peggy Appleyard, Carol Eveler, Janet Mongo, and Mary Lou Thompson.

Speaker Named

Chris Mouyos, president of U.S. Chemical Corporation, will speak at the annual Knight's Night Dinner Friday. Sponsored by Kingston-Ulster County Christian Women's Club, the event is planned for 7 p.m. at Holiday Inn. Mr. Mouyos who resides with his family in Slingerlands spoke for the Christian Women's Club in March and is returning again by popular request.

A special treat is in store for those who like to sing-along. James Eby of Walkill, formerly with Mitch Miller, will present his own version of sing-alongs, accompanied by Mrs. Eby. Audience participation is planned.

Keeping in tune with the evening, another musical feature will be presented by Mr. and Mrs. Ron Westervelt and John Bowen. This vocal and instrumental trio has been performing since July, 1973.

A feature that promises to be of interest to all at this time of year will be Miss Linda Stonehouse's display of tropical floral arrangements. She will represent Woodstock Flower Shop and Garden Center. A Hawaiian motif has been selected.

Many other surprises are planned. Attendance will be by previous reservation only.

Jacqueline Gardner Is Talent Winner

Preliminary auditions for the annual State Talent Pageant to be held at Ithaca College were held recently in Kingston. Jacqueline Gardner, daughter of John H. and Margaret Darling Gardner of Catskill was named "Little Miss Petite." She is the granddaughter of Minnie Gardner of Malden-on-the-Hudson. The young titleholder is now eligible to continue on the Pageant and will represent Greene County on a statewide basis.

The "Little Miss Petite" preliminary was open to girls between the ages of five and eight. Jacqueline auditioned by performing a ballet rendition of the "Love Story Theme." A first grade student at Grandview School, she has been studying ballet for only five months. She is the mascot for the Continental Cadets Drum Corps of Catskill. As part of the preliminary auditions, she also modeled and had private interviews.

It is noted that the Pageant is not a beauty contest, but a talent contest, which endeavors to be an incentive to the participants to make the most of their talents.

Attend Annual Convention

The Mmes. Betty Metrick, Sophie Vasilevich, Patricia Ricks and Vivian Longto recently attended the 23rd Annual Convention held at Grossinger's Resort Hotel. Sponsored by the New York State School Food Service Association, the Executive Board and Convention Committee were honored to host Northeast Regional Directors and nutritional leaders from across the nation including Alaska.

Rose Padgham, president, New York State School Food Service Association, officially opened the Exhibitors Trade Show. The ribbon cutting grand opening of 75 exhibitors welcomed more than 100 NYSSFSA members and school officials. Prominently located in the Exhibit Area, the Bureau of School Food Management of the State Education Department staged a "clinic" offering "First Aid" to school districts' individual problems.

Connecting the Main Complex with the Trade Show, an Educational Corridor displayed exhibits by "intra-departmental professionals". Department of Health and Drugs Education, New York State professional agencies, all nutrition oriented, across the nation including California, sent representatives to demonstrate. Closed circuit T.V., monitored by a high school student, revealed a long Island classroom study on nutrition which, according to viewers, proved outstanding.

PLANNING for the Kingston visit of the Music Department of John H. Glenn High School in Huntington, L. I., are (L-R) Don Boyce, Diane Ramus, Diane Tatar and Peter Schiffer, members of Kingston High School's Music Department.

Concert Slated Friday at KHS

Kingston High School's music department will play host to the music department of John H. Glenn High School of Huntington, Long Island from May 9 through May 11. The Huntington students, chaperones and teachers will be housed in the homes of Kingston students and teachers. The students will visit their hosts' classes during the day and present a concert Friday evening. The concert will begin at 8 p.m. in the Kingston High School auditorium. It is free of charge and open to the public.

An identical schedule took place in reverse April 26-28 when the Kingston High School music department visited the John H. Glenn High School. Judging from the response of the students, the host parents and the Kingston teachers and chaperones, it was a rousing success from every standpoint.

The Elwood community in the Huntington township is a typical middleclass community of five square miles about 40 miles out of New York City. It consists of 4500 students housed in three elementary schools, one junior high school and the senior high school.

A carefully coordinated music education program under the direction of Robert H. Lawton, Director of Music, provides for a balanced program in all grades. This has enabled the high school to present three major organizations plus a choral ensemble and stage band, all of which will perform at the Kingston concert.

Brian Steeves, Director of Music for the Kingston Schools, will conduct the combined music departments in the finale "From Sea to Shining Sea," a stirring arrangement of "America the Beautiful."

This will be the third exchange concert of this type by the John H. Glenn High School. Previous exchanges were made with Nepean High School of Ottawa, Ontario and Griffith Institute of Springfield, N.Y., a small rural community in southwestern New York State.

Thrift Sale

Kingston Pathfinder Club of the Seventh Day Adventist Church will hold a thrift sale Thursday from 10 a.m. to 6:30 p.m. at 24 West Union Street, Kingston.

Proceeds will be used for children of club members.

Saugerties Jayncees Present Awards

Mrs. John Nesgoda was presented with the "Jayncee of the Month" award at the April membership meeting of Saugerties Jayncees. This award was given in recognition of her work on the Miss Ulster County Scholarship Pageant. Mrs. Nesgoda was responsible for the scenery and decorations for the Pageant, in addition to heading a committee to solicit advertising for the scholarship booklet.

Mrs. Jeanette Orlando received a Certificate of Appreciation for her work on the Pageant, while Mrs. Millie Wakeley received a Certificate for the holiday basket for a needy family. Other award winners included Mrs. Linda Hanson and Mrs. Anne Ambramovich. Aid to Jaycee Awards.

Upcoming events include the annual election-dinner Wednesday May 22, at King's Steak House in Saugerties, presentation of a $300 scholarship to a Saugerties resident graduating from John A. Coleman or Saugerties High School, and installation of officers and annual awards at the Jaycee-Jayncee Installation Banquet June 7 at Flamingo Restaurant, Saugerties.

Doing the Right Thing

By ELIZABETH L. POST
(C) 1974 The Emily Post Institute, Inc.

Dear Mrs. Post: In my part of the country we are in the midst of the "mud season," and I'm wondering how you feel about asking visitors to wipe their feet on a hall doormat before entering.

Sara Whitcomb
Dear Mrs. Whitcomb: If your part of the country means northern New England, where the mud season is a cross that everyone shares, I'll bet you don't find very many visitors who need reminding. However, if a visitor should be so thoughtless as to start tracking mud across your floor, you have every right to say: "Would you mind wiping your shoes? I've just cleaned the floor," or whatever comment seems appropriate. Actually, when the "mud season" is at its peak, it is entirely correct — and considerate — to have a few pairs of felt slippers or terrycloth sluffs near the door, so that friends may take off their boots and still keep their feet warm while they visit.

Dear Mrs. Post: My son is getting married soon, and I would like to know if it is proper for my other son, who is an usher, to walk me to my seat when I come in the church. I have been told that the head usher is supposed to do this, but I prefer my son. Is that too much to ask?

Mom
Dear Mom: Not at all. In fact, if either the bride's mother or the groom's mother has a son or other close relative who is a member of the wedding party, he is usually the usher designated to escort her to her seat. There is no fixed rule about this other than to choose whomever you would most like to have for your escort.

Fund Drive

The Ponckhockie Civic Association has begun a fund raising drive to bolster its dwindling treasury. The Association was founded in 1964 for residents of Kingston's Tenth Ward to raise funds to build and maintain the Veteran's Memorial Site at the corner of Delaware and Lindsley Avenues. The money will be used to dress up the site for Memorial Day, May 27.

GOOD FISHING SPOT — Charles Price of Reading, Pa., knows a good fishing spot when he finds one. He's been fishing this one at Papermill Falls on the Tulpehocken Creek for 51 years. With him are Little Dog, left, and Weenie, who share the catch. (UPI TELEPHOTO)

Council Reverses on Disclosure Law

By HUGH REYNOLDS

KINGSTON — The Common Council doesn't often reverse itself once it begins moving on a piece of legislation, but it did Tuesday night and there are indications the Watergate scandal in Washington may have been a factor.

At issue was the so-called "public disclosure" local law that have reduced the city of the burden of holding auctions, advertising publicly and holding public hearings when it sought to sell or lease its property.

The Laws and Rules Committee of the Common Council suggested the legislation for convenience sake — specifically, it involved land the city owns in Woodstock which it leases to the Art Students League — it would have relieved the city of a good deal of routine paperwork and some expense.

And it was all perfectly legal, the bypassing of public disclosure requirements. The legislation cited a Nov. 17, 1969 ruling by the State Attorney General giving the city that option.

The Laws and Rules Committee sponsored the legislation and it was a member of that committee who started it toward defeat. Alderman Joseph McGrane voted an "emphatic no."

Committee chairman Donald E. Quick offered some reasons. "We've been getting a lot of feedback what with what's happening in government today," Quick said. "Anything like this seems underhanded."

Alderman James F. Howard said information on the city's property should be available to the public "any time."

The final vote was 9-2 with Aldermen John F. Coffey (D-First Ward) and Clarence Stoutenberg (D-Fourth Ward) voting in favor. Aldermen Brian Smith (R-Third Ward) and John E. Finch (D-Fifth Ward) were excused from last night's meeting.

In other action, a request by the Board of Fire Commissioners for a charter change adding one more fire commissioner, bringing total membership of the board (including the mayor) to five in order to prevent tie votes, was referred to the Laws and Rules Committee and the Charter Revision Committee. Noting a similar request for the Police Commission last month, Quick suggested the two committees should study the entire commission system of the city with a move toward standardization.

The accounting firm of Ronder and Ronder was retained at a cost of $500 to do a special audit on the city's revenue sharing accounts as required by federal law.

The city agreed to comply with State Department of Transportation requirements on accounting for its one-bus mass transit operation. Such an agreement would make the city eligible for reimbursement for some expenses from the state. At present the bus operation costs the city about $21,000 a year.

A public hearing has been set for May 30 at 8 p.m. in Council chambers on a request by Charles and Margaret Schulenberg to develop a small parcel of land off Delaware Avenue near Hasbrouck Avenue owned by the Kingston Urban Renewal Agency. The Schulerbergs have been determined to be "qualified and eligible" redevelopers.

The amendatory process for the city's zoning code was amended as per the request of the Planning Board. It raises the filing fee from $25 to $50 and routes all zoning amendments through the Planning Board, required a three-quarters vote of the Council to override Planning Board rejections.

The building department seeks legislation requiring an inspection of any house being sold to insure that it meets all code requirements before ownership can be transferred. The law now requires that for multiple dwellings but not single family units.

Alderman Clifford G. Sin-sabaugh suggested the Building Department do the job it's presently assigned before seeking new responsibilities. The matter was referred to committee.

Bicycle Ordinance Favored

KINGSTON — The Common Council, after a year of study on the issue, moved to create a bicycle control ordinance for the city at its regular meeting Tuesday night.

Legislation proposed by the Laws and Rules Committee would require that all bicycles be registered with the Police Department which would issue registration cards and identification tags at an annual rate of 50 cents.

Alderman Donald E. Quick (D-Sixth Ward), chairman of the Council's Laws and Rules Committee, said the legislation was based on an ordinance now in effect in Poughkeepsie.

Mayor Francis R. Koenig had submitted model legislation to the committee based on a Rye, N.Y. ordinance, but Quick said that was "too complicated and involved."

"We'd have to hire twice the cops we have now to enforce it" (the Rye ordinance), Quick said. "This is a good start."

The legislation is in the form of a local law which requires three readings before the Common Council. The first reading was last night. It is expected the Common Council will approve it after two readings at the June meeting and assuming approval by the mayor after a public hearing, the city's first bicycle ordinance should go into effect by July 1.

Action on the "Bike ordinance" came as something of a surprise last night as did inaction on some $300,000 worth of Department of Public Works equipment for which bids were opened on May 1.

Mayor Koenig sent the aldermen a communication which he said was "self explanatory" and which included a request by the DPW for a total of $336,350 for 19 pieces of equipment.

The equipment requests were broken down into two categories. One letter requested $117,367 for four 20-yard trash collection (compactor) trucks while the other asked for $219,013 for 15 other pieces of equipment ranging from dump trucks to pavement strippers.

Informed sources indicate that the issue revolves around the purchase of the trash collection trucks. The DPW wants 20-yard compactors; a number of aldermen want the larger 31-yard models. Alderman-at-large T. Robert Gallo said only that the Council wants more time to study the matter.

Since a bond issue will be required, no action can be taken until the June 4 regular meeting of the Council on equipment the DPW considers "critical."

The Council also failed to take action on a request for $14,000 for new tennis courts from the Recreation Department although it did approve $2,000 for children's coloring books as requested by the Stockade Committee.

The aldermen gave their unanimous approval to a condominium housing complex off Hurley Avenue to be built by P.G. Simmons of West Hurley. Quick noted it was the city's first condominium, said it was "a good move" and added, "we have enough apartments, per se." It will be built on 11 acres across from Stony Run.

A request to build apartments on a 14-acre tract off Linderman Avenue was withdrawn by a Poughkeepsie based firm. It said it did not have time to meet the information requirements of the city.

There were two speakers before the Council. Harry M. Thayer spoke on dogs, bicycles and the need to prohibit the playing of baseball by children at the Gen. Sharpe Cemetery off Albany Avenue.

Samuel Perry questioned the city's policies on zoning variances granted property owners at 23 Abruyn Street and on The Strand, site of L&M Auto Parts.

Alderman Peter J. Mancuso (D-Twelfth Ward) announced that City Planner Robert E. Pritchard had drawn up specifications for some 700 new parking meters and that bids would be advertised this month for possible approval at the June meeting of the aldermen.

County Jail Settlement On Legislature Agenda

By LYNN MULVANEY
KINGSTON — Ulster County Legislature will consider Thursday night whether or not to accept an insurance settlement of $16,763 for the cleanup of the Ulster County Jail on Golden Hill.

County Buildings Committee Chairman Robert H. Kuhlmann stressed that the funds are "strictly" for cleanup and that after that work is accomplished, then further damages will be sought for repair of the physical damage incurred at the new jail in recent months.

Kuhlmann said that recent fires in the jail have caused a considerable amount of damage including smoke and soot deposits and that the cleaning of these deposits must be completed before the additional damage can be ascertained.

Other sources have estimated that the physical damage to the jail may amount to in excess of $50,000.

Kuhlmann and his committee point out that the insurance carrier for the County of Ulster has offered to pay the $16,763 which is the amount estimated for the cleaning and is a partial settlement of the claim.

Several estimates of the cleanup project were received before a settlement was offered.

Other proposals to come before the board include the issuance of a budget note for $145,000 to pay part of the cost of electricity at the Ulster County Infirmary and the Ulster

County Jail for the year 1974.

Another resolution would call for approving bids and entering into a contract for the $200,000 remodeling and renovation of South Manor Avenue Highway Garage for use by the Data Processing and Tax Map Departments.

The 8 p.m. session of the board in the County Office Building will also have on its agenda, legislation calling for adoption of a comprehensive manpower plan for Ulster County, and a request of the State Legislature providing all political subdivisions with direct notice from the Public Service Commission in cases where utility rate increases are being applied for.

The board will also consider recommending that newly elected legislators attend a course in legislative powers and duties, before they take office.

The board will be concerned with the creation of more agricultural districts, studying bicycling in Ulster County, opposing the dumping of effluent into Birch Creek and will appoint new members to the County Planning Board.

Also, consideration will be given to the hiring of additional personnel in the Office Building Annex, establishing a system of election registration through branch offices in Ulster County, and giving permission to Health and Welfare Department officials to attend conferences.
